$35,000 PRIZES BY AMERICAN

Sit down to-day and take stock of yourself.

Make an inventory of what you can do, of what you may do, and of what you could have done in the past year in the way of making a success for yourself in this new year that you are now starting out upon.

How many golden opportunities have you missed in the year just closed?

Have you made up your mind not to commit the same mistakes twice?

The success of every individual in the world is based principally upon foresight and ability to recognize the magic caller—OPPORTUNITY—and not let him get away from you. Remember, OPPORTUNITY does not knock twice upon the same door.

OPPORTUNITY is now knocking at the door of each and every reader of this newspaper.

The AMERICAN will make the year 1911, for 1,000 readers of this paper, a year to look back upon in future years and say, "In 1911 OPPORTUNITY knocked at my door and I welcomed him with open arms."

Opportunity is Here.

OPPORTUNITY is plain before you in the AMERICAN'S $35,000 offer to its readers. YOUR share of this $35,000 is "yours for the asking." All in this world that you will have to do is to ask your relatives, friends and acquaintances, anywhere and everywhere, to buy the AMERICAN daily and Sunday, and to save the votes which will be issued to subscribers, beginning January 15, for YOU.

That is all! Simply that and nothing more. If ever OPPORTUNITY presented itself to any one, it now does so to the readers of this newspaper.

How often have many and many of us yearned to own our own home! We tried so hard to save, and save, and save, so that we could get together enough to build a nest for our dear ones, but—my, what a hard job it is to get together the necessary thousands of dollars to do this.

The AMERICAN'S $35,000 contest makes this question an easy one to answer. SOME AMERICAN reader will be the sole and undisputed owner of a beautiful $8,000 house and two lots, situated on Riverton, Mass., one of Boston's most beautiful suburbs, within twenty minutes ride of the Park street subway.

Surely this is worth a little effort! Thousands of people have for a lifetime said and still cannot say, "I own my own home." And don't forget the value of this handsome residence—$8,000.

Anyone who reads this and does not feel interested is simply willfully kicking OPPORTUNITY out of the door.

And seven (7) 1911 touring automobiles! Just when the Summer season is about to begin. Think of the health and joy that you can bring into the lives of your family if you are the winner of one of these handsome automobiles. And then again, do not forget the luxuriant comfort of these machines.

Seven grand pianos, of the world's best make, come next in the list of prizes. How would you like to have one of these high class instruments for your own, to bring pleasure and happiness to your wife and children. These pianos are valued at between $500 and $700, and the list of makers will be announced later.

Do you spend your Summer vacation at the seashore or at some other place? It does not matter—you will get many a day of healthful enjoyment if you secure one of the seven (7) speed power boats which come next in the list of prizes. The AMERICAN readers who get these motor boats, will be justly proud of them.

Thousand Prizes In All.

And this is not all—no, indeed—when you consider that there is still a list of 993 prizes—yes, which will actually be given to SOME 978 AMERICAN readers. Think of the magnitude of this distribution! One thousand prizes in all; in other words, 1,000 readers of this newspaper will actually receive each a handsome and valuable prize.

If this is not OPPORTUNITY—then what is it? The thing for you to do, AMERICAN readers everywhere, is to turn at once to Page 6 of to-day's AMERICAN, cut out the ENROLLMENT BALLOT, carry it out with the rest of them, fill the blank spaces in carefully, and mail at once to the American Contest Editor, P. O. Box 227, Boston, Mass. Immediately upon receipt of your ENROLLMENT BALLOT, your name will be credited with 1,000 votes. Surely, you could not ask for a much better start than this.

This $35,000 Prize Contest begins on January 15 and closes on June 15, at midnight. Only a very short time, readers, and then 1,000 people will be rich and happy.

It is perfectly easy and simple to get one of these prizes! Do not wait another minute to cut out your ENROLLMENT BALLOT. Do it at once. This is the first step, and only one, for you on the step towards being $8,000 richer.

Full details of the AMERICAN'S $35,000 contest will be found on another page of to-day's AMERICAN. Study the prize announcement you will find there, and study it very carefully. Then ENROLL and don't let a single minute go by before you do so!

OPPORTUNITY is hammering at your doors, readers of the AMERICAN. Do not turn him away, he will never return again. GET YOUR ENROLLMENT IN TO-DAY.

4 SHOT IN GREAT HOLDUP

OGDEN, Utah, Jan. 3.—Overland limited train No. 1, west bound, on the Southern Pacific, the most celebrated train that runs upon the line between Chicago and San Francisco, was held up at midnight by masked men nine miles west of this city. Every passenger aboard was robbed of all valuables. A negro porter on one of the Pullman sleepers, who made resistance, was shot down and killed by the bandits and two passengers and another porter were wounded.

A special train carrying twenty-five men heavily armed was rushed from Ogden at 2 o'clock a. m. Three other posses went to the scene of the holdup from Hot Springs in autos. It is not yet definitely known just how much the robbers got, but it is believed the amount is between $10,000 and $15,000 in cash and jewelry.

The bandits boarded the train at Reese station after signalling the train with a lighted fuse. The men climbed into the cab and ordere the engineer and fireman from it. Leaping after the trainmen, the hold-up men herded them toward the Pullman cars.

Passengers in Panic.

As the highwaymen attempted to board the sleepers, two porters appeared and commanded them not to get on the train. In the darkness they could not see the bandits clearly and did not suspect that the train was about to be robbed. The hold-up men pressed forward and the porters resisted. Without more ado the highwaymen shot down the porters and rushed into the cars.

The passengers had been awakened by the shots and soon women and children were screaming and the men were in a panic. The bandits passed through all the cars, thrusting rifles and revolvers into the berths and commanding the passengers to surrender their valuables. One passenger offered resistance and was either clubbed or shot. The nature of his injuries has not yet been learned.

From berth to berth went one of the bandits while his companion stood in the doorway, guarding the approaches and menacing the occupants of the car constantly with a revolver.

Death Threats to All.

The robbers collected an immense pile of money and jewelry, which they loaded into their pockets and into sacks brought for the purpose.

With a final volley of revolver shots and many threats of death to any one attempting to follow them, they left the train with the same deliberate assurance that had marked their whole conduct, and were seen disappearing toward the north on the county road.

Conductor Cunningham made his escape and advised the train dispatcher at Ogden of the hold-up, and within less than an hour posses were leaving the city by special train and automobiles. About thirty minutes after the holdup, the automobile of James Wayment of Warren were stopped by two men in a vehicle and held up. These men tally with the descriptions of the robbers who were described as the customary tall and short bandits.

TROOPS CHARGE BRAZIL RIOTERS

PARA, Jan. 3.—Following an agitation here of many weeks on the part of the public against what they term the political corruption and maladministration of municipal affairs, a serious outbreak has occurred, resulting in rioting, pillaging and the burning of many buildings. Several persons have been injured, and the situation became so serious that the troops were called out. Cavalrymen charged the rioters gathered in the principal streets in the center of the city and there was a severe skirmish before the troops succeeded in clearing the thoroughfares. During this several of the mob were hurt.

Though the city is comparatively quiet now it is not believed that the populace will be content with this demonstration and the authorities are keeping in readiness for any further disturbance, fresh outbreaks being expected any time.

FATALLY STABBED WITH UMBRELLA

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Stabbed to the brain by the ferrule of an umbrella, Thomas Melorrey is dead at a Jersey City hospital. George Kreigh is under arrest, charged with causing the man's death. According to Kreigh's story, he had an altercation with Melorrey and the latter attempted to strike him. In guarding his face he threw up his umbrella, he said, and Melorrey fell to the sidewalk screaming with pain, his hands clasped over one eye. Kreigh is arraigned to-day.

CLEVELAND MAY LOSE THREE-CENT FARE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 3.—Wall street threatens to put an end to Cleveland's enjoyment of three-cent street car fare. Wall street has been asked to furnish funds for certain improvements the Cleveland Railway Company desires to make, and the money kings insist that the fare be raised before they put up the cash.

STATESMAN WHO LED THE POLICE IN ANARCHIST BATTLE

WINSTON CHURCHILL

CALUMET WILL MERGE HOLDINGS

The world renowned and conservative Calumet & Hecla Mining Company, which has its executive offices in the old time fashionable and exclusive thoroughfare, Ashburton Place, is to become thoroughly up-to-date as modern financing goes.

A few years ago it bought controlling interests in several of the leading Lake Superior copper mines in Michigan against which it issued bonds. Now comes official announcement that it is to organize a new Michigan corporation and consolidate these interests into one company. The new company will have $19,000,000 capital stock, authorized issue, represented in seventeen hundredths for one; 18,075 for the 90,150 Osceola shares, or one for two; 5,400 for 90,000 shares of Centennial, or three-fifths for one; 15,200 for the 50,000 Tamarack shares, or eleven-fiftieths for one; 4,000 for the 80,000 Laurium, or one-fifth for one; 6,000 for the 300,000 shares of La Salle, or one for fifty; 18,000 for the 100,000 Superior, or nine-fiftieths for one, and 170,834 shares of the new company for the present 100,000 outstanding shares of the Calumet & Hecla Company.

Exchanged for Calumet.

This amount of 170,834 shares to be exchanged for Calumet & Hecla stock represents the value of the property holdings exclusive of the value of its shares of stock in the other companies entering the consolidation, but inclusive of the value of its shares of stock of the Grattiot Mining Company (equivalent to 250 new shares) and the Isle Royale Copper Company (equivalent to 1925 new shares).

In addition to the 170,834 shares, the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company will receive 69,166 shares of the stock of the consolidated company in exchange for its holdings of shares of stock in other companies which enter into the consolidation so that each stockholder of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company will receive in exchange for each share of Calumet & Hecla stock 2 and 40-100 shares of the stock of the consolidated company.

The Grattiot Mining Company and the Isle Royale Copper Company being companies organized under the laws of Maine and New Jersey respectively, cannot take part in the consolidation under which the consolidation will be effected; but the consolidated corporation shall, when and if the stockholders of these companies vote to take the necessary steps, purchase the properties of these corporations on the basis of seven-one hundredths for one new for each of the 150,000 outstanding Isle Royale shares and one-ten-hundredths for each of the 100,000 shares of Grattiot.

The present Calumet & Hecla owns enough of Isle Royale and Grattiot stock to call for 2,475 of the new company, so that only 8,825 additional shares will have to be issued when the proportions comes. Under the proposed plan 62,000 shares will remain in the treasury of the consolidated company.

Name Is Unchanged.

The name of the proposed company will be the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company, the name under which it stands. The Agassiz plan is proposed that the first board shall include the present directors, which includes the present executive committee of the Calumet & Hecla. Higginson and Hunnewell families.

Action on this consolidation of the twelve Lake Superior companies will be taken at a special meeting in Boston March 7. In the final evolution of the plan, which is quite complicated, the present Calumet & Hecla company, in being allotted, as indicated, 168,850 shares to represent its own mining property and 71,341 shares to represent its holdings in the subsidiary companies, will receive altogether a total of 240,000 shares, or 2.4 new shares for each of the present 100,000 outstanding shares.

ANARCHISTS AT BAY FIGHT 1200 TROOPS

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Eight men, six of them desperate Anarchists and two of them firemen, were killed to-day in a bloody battle between nearly 1,200 policemen and soldiers and an Anarchist band intrenched in a stronghold in Sidney street, East End. The Anarchists committed suicide, shooting themselves with their last bullets.

Before they did so, however, amid the flames of the building, which they had themselves fired, they sent a final volley at firemen who were entering the burning building, and killed two of them. Later it was reported that only two Anarchists were killed, and that the others escaped.

In the conflict, which raged for eight hours and was watched by more than half a million spectators, more than a score were wounded. Two police sergeants were fatally shot.

Firemen Injured by Falling Walls

The injured, according to a roster prepared by the police two hours after the battle ended, include:

Policemen, eight; firemen, seven; Scots Guardsmen, 3; spectators, 5.

The seven injured firemen were crushed by falling walls as they entered the building after their two comrades had been shot to death. The five injured spectators were wounded while pressing too closely to the scene of the conflict, which was the most sensational and dramatic in a century's history of the city.

The wounded guardsmen were members of two companies which had been despatched from London Tower to aid in the capture of the Anarchists. Following the discovery of the six dead Anarchists in the building where they had made their last stand, the bodies of two were identified as those of "Dutch Fritz" and "Peter the Painter," leaders of the band which is believed to have included one or two Americans, recently returned, to take up the work of plotting against royalty and conducting criminal operations here.

POLICE SEVERELY CRITICISED FOR BATTLE.

The action of the police in making the assault on the intrenched gang when they might have been starved out without any loss of life met with the universal condemnation this afternoon, and a complete shake-up of the police system of the country is expected to follow. The criticism of Scotland Yard has been steadily growing since the Crippen case.

The battle raged over eight hours and was watched by more than half a million people. It was the most spectacular conflict in a century's history of London.

The anarchists knew it was a hopeless fight, but they laughed and cursed as they poured volleys into the ranks of their besiegers and kept the struggle up for eight hours.

The men fought to their death in the burning building which they had set on fire themselves, evidently with a hope of escaping under cover of the smoke. In desperation they fought on until the rescuers reached their second floor, which exploded, killing them defenceless. Then they disappeared, one by one, from the roof, where they had been driven by the flames.

The fire department was called out after a dozens of volleys had been sent into the building. The firemen were told to train lines of hose at the den and try to drown the Anarchists out. They did. It had no effect.

Police Set Fire to the Den.

After this it was decided to set fire to the place. This failed, but subsequently the Anarchists themselves fired the building.

Straw saturated with kerosene was strewn around and a torch applied to it. Flames soon enveloped the structure. The Anarchists were unable to escape and fought to the end.

A rollcall of the firemen after the battle showed that nine were missing. Their comrades reported that two had been shot dead as they entered the building, and seven had been injured by collapsing walls.

During the battle thousands of shots were fired. In the midst of the struggle Home Secretary Winston Churchill appeared. He led the besiegers right up towards the house and went to the very

MANIAC AMUCK WITH IRON BAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—A maniac at large playing tag with a piece of iron pipe which he used to tap people on the head injured four people in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn to-day.

Louis Martin, No. 62 South Fifth street, was the first to respect the madman to the poolee. He said that a man rushed up behind him, hit out a wild scream of delight, slammed him on the head and fled, crying, "Crazy!"

At North Tenth street and Kent avenue the maniac treated John McGrain in the same way. John McLaughlin was also rapped over the head with the pipe soon after he entered his home at No. 142 North Ninth street. George Fitzpatrick, was knocked senseless in front of his home, No. 93 North Fourth street.

BIG CHAIN CONTRACT FOR THE PHILIPPINES

PITTSBURG, Jan. 3.—One of the largest orders ever placed in the Pittsburg district for chain has been awarded to the Standard Chain Company by the government, calling for 96,400 feet of its strongest chain, as quickly as possible, to be used to anchor torpedo mines in many of the harbors of the Philippine Islands.

The circulation of the AMERICAN is 300,000 more than its next highest competitor and 100,000 more than all the other evening papers of Boston combined.

HOXSEY'S BODY TO BE CREMATED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—Roy Knabenshue and T. P. Jackson, representing the Wright company, completed details for the funeral of Arch Hoxsey, which took place in Pasadena to-day. At the request of Mrs. Hoxsey the body was cremated, and the ashes later will be taken by Mrs. Hoxsey to their old home, at Atkinson, Neb., where they will rest beside those of his father.

The funeral services were in part open to the public. The pallbearers were Walter Brookins, Phil O. Parmelee, J. Eugene Ely, Charles F. Willard, Moss. Hubert Latham and James Ingley.

Telegrams and letters of sympathy and condolence have been received by Mrs. Hoxsey from the Aero Club of America, Charles G. Gates of Port Arthur, Texas, Edward B. Dixon of Jersey City, N. J., and the aviation committee of the Los Angeles Times.

For the first time since it was inaugurated the Pasadena Tournament of Roses yesterday had a sad feature. It was the absence of Arch Hoxsey. He and his aeroplane were to have formed one of the special features of the parade.

The aviation meet closed yesterday in listless fashion. As a final spectacle the aviation committee arranged for all the machines on the grounds to fly during the last heat, so that Moss, Latham and Messrs. Brookins, Parmelee, Curtiss, Ely, Willard and Radley were all in the air at the same time.

CLOSE SCHOOL IN FEVER EPIDEMIC

In a concerted effort to stamp out an epidemic of scarlet fever which has so far resulted in the death of one boy and has caused consternation among the parents of the Wollaston section of Quincy, the Wollaston Grammar School has been closed and Gorin has been on Sunday school session as the four churches of that district for the last three Sundays.

When the office of the Quincy Board of Health declare there is no epidemic, and state there are only twenty cases maintained at the present time, they have notified the school committee not to open the Wollaston School, which has an attendance of nearly 350 pupils, until another week at least. Three new cases reported last Friday are responsible for this this order.

The epidemic cost the life of Ernest Lee Thomas, ten years old, who was a pupil at the Wollaston School. Another victim, daughter of A. D. Rice, has been sent to the Boston Homeopathic Hospital for treatment.

Scarlet fever broke out in the Wollaston district three weeks ago. It started, it is said, in a family that lives on Grand View street, one of the highest points in the city. The cases are said to have been identical in symptoms and the disease spread without knowing what was ailing them. When a child died in one family came down and a physician was called. Then the other families in the locality were peeling, which is the infectious stage of the disease.

JAMES ON WAY TO AID MYLIUS

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Edward B. James, nephew of the late Professor William James the psychologist of Harvard University, and editor of the Paris Liberator, the sale of which recently was suppressed in London because of its alleged shameful publications, arrived in London from where he says he will aid Edward B. Mylius, who is being held in default of $50,000 bail, charged with criminal libel in connection with an article published in the Liberator accusing King George of perjury. Mylius was merely the distributor of the Liberator, which is published in Switzerland, the alleged libel being a criticism of republicanism published in Paris.

LEATHER FRAUD SHOWN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Fraudulent "loading" of leather by the use of glucose and other materials is being practiced to an immense extent, to the great detriment of the lower quality of shoes, according to information told before Congress by Dr. Wiley, the chemist of the Department of Agriculture.

CAPT. J. T. GILMAN OF BANGOR DEAD

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 3.—Captain John T. Gilman, a veteran of the civil war, member of the Royal Legion for thirty years, and an inspector in the Bangor custom house, is dead at his home in Brewer. He was born in Hermon, Maine, and his was in active service until a few weeks ago. He was born in Hermon, and lived for a time in Charlestown, Mass. He leaves a wife and a daughter and two brothers, Jacob A. Gilman and Edward A. Gilman of Boston.

WOMEN WILL HONOR SUMNER

One of the sessions of the Charles Sumner centenary meetings to be held under the auspices of the New England Suffrage League, will be especially a women's session. The Anti-Lynching Society of Afro-American Women will have charge of this session. Mrs. Josephine Ruffner, lawyer of Myrtle and Irving streets, Friday, from 10:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

SENTENCES BOY, 13, FOR BURGLARY

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 3.—John Pierce, thirteen years old, of No. 37 Danforth street, has become such a confirmed housebreaker that Judge Gorham sent him to Cranston for seven years for burglary committed in the home of Joseph A. Bernard of No. 83 Dodge street last night.

JORDAN LOSES HIS APPEAL

The full bench of the Supreme Court to-day handed down a decision overruling the motion of the attorneys of Chester S. Jordan, to which they asked for a new trial. Jordan is convicted of killing his wife. Only the United States Supreme Court or the Governor of the State can save his life now.

Chester S. Jordan was convicted of the murder of his wife, Honora C. Jordan, whom he killed at their home in Somerville on September 1, 1909. After his wife's death Jordan put the body up into thirteen pieces in the kitchen of his home and was found in the act of burning many of the dismembered body, which he had placed in a trunk, when arrested.

Cabman Gave Clue.

The trial of the young man attracted a great deal of attention because of the atrocity of the crime and the prominence of the family of the victim. Jordan, who came to the front with unlimited backing from the wife's sister, Edwards, of New York, retain counsel.

Jordan was arrested by Hancock street boarding house in Dorchester a few days after the murder. He was arrested on information given by a cabman who had driven Jordan and the trunk that contained his wife's mutilated body to the house where Jordan was found. Jordan at first denied that he had killed his wife, but finally admitted that he had done the deed.

The many witnesses who were subpoenaed during the trial testified to the disposition of the prisoner, who drove him to distraction at times. The cabman informed the police and the reporters that Jordan, the boarding house found Jordan and discovered the body in the trunk.

Juror Goes Insane.

Jordan made a confession to the police in the early hours of the morning following the murder, in which he said he and his wife had quarrelled, that he had pushed her and she fell down stairs. He said that he did not think she was dead and had gone to bed, but that next day found her dead and cold and decided to cut the body up and dispose of it.

This confession was introduced as evidence at the trial, but the jury apparently did not believe that he had told the entire truth, for they did not give the prisoner the benefit of the stand.

He was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

SIX ANARCHISTS DEAD AFTER POLICE BATTLE

BODIES FOUND IN RUINS OF BURNED HOUSE FOLLOWING DEFIANCE OF ARREST.

door, while scores of shots were fired at him. He was in vain that the police tried to persuade Churchill to get out of harm's way. He bade them to attend to the crowd.

Frustrated by Plot.

Scotland Yard officials declared that the fatal battle had frustrated a great international plot to murder the loyalty which will gather for King George's coronation in this building where the men parleyed was the headquarters of the band.

To-day's toll was a bloody sequel to a shooting affray in Houndsditch on December 17, when two policemen were killed and three others wounded, and the subsequent raid upon an Anarchist club in which crowded all the men killed to-day were formulating a great international plot of death.

The police declare that the Anarchists in the battered house had been manufacturing bombs to be used in their criminal raids and a plot to exterminate royalty at the coming coronation. The battle broke out at 6:45 a. m. and at 9 o'clock this afternoon the bodies of six dead Anarchists were recovered.

Five minutes later the roof of the building collapsed. It seemed impossible that anyone could be alive within, but the police and soldiers waited with revolvers and rifles ready to kill any Anarchists that might attempt to escape. At that time it was believed that there were other Anarchists dead within the building.

Detectives of Scotland Yard declare that the Anarchists committed suicide, asserting that when the flames had completely cut them off from escape eight shots were heard within the building. This occurred shortly before the firemen found the six bodies.

The troops were withdrawn from the scene at 3:30 this afternoon and marched back to London Tower amid the cheers of the watching crowd. Shortly after the troops left several firemen were injured when the walls of the burned building fell.

200 Police in Siege.

The conflict was precipitated when two hundred policemen, all armed, surrounded the house and demanded the surrender of two internationally known Anarchists known as "Peter the Painter" and "Dutch Fritz." Peter was wanted for complicity in the recent battle in Houndsditch between a foreign gang and a robber band which was looting a jewelry store. Instead of delivering up the suspects those in the house, which Scotland Yard has learned is the headquarters of all the foreign Anarchists in England, opened fire.

The Anarchists were well supplied with ammunition, and men stationed at the windows kept up a steady rain of lead from revolvers and rifles.

The 200 police were reinforced by additional men armed with revolvers. The officers took possession of the houses on the opposite side of the street and kept firing constantly into the windows of the Anarchists' stronghold. In the meantime an enormous crowd of fully 100,000 persons gathered, crowding all the streets leading to the scene. Additional policemen were sent for to clear away the crowds because it was feared that some onlookers would be killed. In the meantime it was seen that the police would be unsuccessful in their efforts to drive out the enemy from their fortress, and the Scots Guards were called from the Tower of London.

Charge With Fixed Bayonets.

With fixed bayonets and their rifles loaded with ball cartridges the soldiers marched through the street at double quick, scattering the mob of people before them and arriving upon the scene of the battle in a short time.

The men were drawn up in an archway where they would command a view of the house where the Anarchists were fortified, but were protected by jutting walls. The command to fire was given and a heavy roar that shook the neighborhood followed. Volley after volley was fired into the Anarchists' fortress, while the house was splintered from basement to attic.

But the Anarchists kept up a constant storm of lead against the house protecting the police, while one of the men climbed out upon the roof where he was protected by a chimney and tried to pick off the officers. Four policemen who fell in the early fighting were rushed to hospitals. Others had nearly all their clothing shot from their bodies. It was believed that at least one of the Anarchists had been killed, as a man was seen to topple backward from a window where he had been firing at the officers.

It was thought that the presence of soldiers would cow the Anarchists, but it had just the opposite effect. The men fought more fiercely after the troops arrived and a call was sent for reinforcements.

Two spectators who ventured into the bullet zone were shot and rushed to hospitals. While the lead was rattling against the Anarchists' forces like hail one man with the blood streaming from half a dozen wounds emptied a revolver into the ranks of the soldiers and then tottered backwards.

A temporary lull followed while the officers of the police and soldiers conferred with a view to forcing the Anarchists to surrender. The Scots Guards' commander advised that cannon be brought up and the house demolished.

The police demurred to this suggestion, however, as they wanted to take the prisoners alive. Scotland Yard officials declared that the Anarchists had valuable information that they wanted to obtain, and for that reason they wanted to capture the men rather than kill them.

Start a Fire of Straw.

A great quantity of straw was brought up, and policemen using planks and pieces of iron as shields, managed to place a quantity of it in the basement and set it afire, was going on some of the police and soldiers hoping to smoke out the men. While this diers combined forces and took up positions in the rear of the house, and the battle was renewed. A party of soldiers ascended to the roof of a nearby brewery and from that point of vantage directed their fire into the stronghold of the lawless band.

The Anarchists rushed to the attic windows in the rear of the house and returned the volleys of the troops.

Fire engines were summoned to the scene with the intention of flooding out the Anarchists. High pressure streams of water were directed into the windows of the houses, while the firemen worked under the protection of sharpshooters who were stationed to pick off any of the Anarchists who showed themselves. Some of the Anarchists showed reckless bravery, leaning from the windows to fire their guns. They had a great quantity of ammunition and used it without stint.

Women Aid in the Battle.

Occasionally a glimpse was caught of women aiding their male companions. At the height of the battle the air was filled with flying lead. All of the houses in the vicinity were splintered and the police ordered out the occupants for fear they would be killed. Windows were smashed and doors filled with bullet holes. Sergeant Leeson was shot and mortally wounded while directing the storm of the building. His body was exposed to the fire of the Anarchists, and he fell with several dangerous wounds. He was taken to a hospital, where it was said he would die.

The police expressed the belief that there were several women in the house, and that they were helping the men by loading the guns and revolvers.

The battle to-day, which was the most sensational affray since feudal days, was the sequel of the Houndsditch battle between robbers and police when five officers were either killed or wounded.

As an outgrowth of that affray it was learned by Scotland Yard that sixty foreign Anarchists had gathered in London and were plotting the death of the monarchs who will gather for the coronation of King George next June. Both "Peter the Painter" and Fritz were suspected of being the ringleaders in the Houndsditch burglary and later when another house was raided and a number of bombs seized, the police found literature which showed that the two men were really the head and front of the band.

All Nations in Band.

The Anarchistic band is a strange mixture, its followers being made up of Russians, Americans, Italians, Hungarians and Englishmen. A number of the men are said to have returned only recently from America. The police found great quantities of literature in the raid which was made about ten days ago and gleaned valuable secrets from this. However, it was known that the Anarchists in the house had much more valuable information. It was for this reason that Scotland Yard impressed upon both soldiers and police the necessity of capturing the men alive. "Wound them if necessary, but do not kill them," was the order given.

Every attempt to parley with the Anarchists met with an answering bullet, and it was decided to call for aid. Six hundred additional policemen were rushed to the scene, bringing the total number of police up to 1,000. All of the men were armed with revolvers and each was supplied with one hundred rounds of ammunition.

When they arrived near the scene orders were given for the men to deploy and clear the streets. The crowd had grown to such proportions that the detachment of men patrolling the thoroughfares adjacent to the battle zone could not cope with the situation. The soldiers kept up a steady fire against the windows of the house, but despite this the Anarchists poured their volleys toward the invading force.

Almost six hours after the battle began the firing from the house ceased, but the police and soldiers, fearing it was a ruse, were held back. After a time the opinion was expressed that the Anarchists had exhausted their supply of ammunition, but fear of treachery still prevented any charge on the house.

The affray began at 6:45 a. m. after the police had tried to make several arrests. The officers found their men in bed but were driven from the house when they exhibited their warmuts. The house was surrounded and the police took possession of the building on the opposite side of the street. The battle raged fiercely and at 10:30 o'clock the first detachment of soldiers was brought up.

Home Secretary Churchill went to the scene of the conflict. The police were fearful that he would be shot for he insisted on pressing forward to a point where he could command a view of the bullet ridden structure. It was believed that there were only five men in the house, though because of their daring there seemed to be a small garrison.

More Troops are Called.

Following the arrival of the Home Secretary another company of Scots Guards was ordered from the Tower garrison. They arrived at 1:40 o'clock heavily armed and accoutred as for actual warfare.

Efforts to drive out the Anarchists by fire and water having failed, it was finally decided to batter down the house. When the second detachment of Scots Guards arrived upon the scene with a machine gun, Scotland Yard reluctantly consented that the Anarchist den be assaulted.

The gun was planted in the street with the muzzle pointed towards the house and artillery men loaded it. An officer shouted to the Anarchists that the house would be demolished if they did not surrender. The men within replied with a shout of derision.

The Anarchists fired a well-directed volley, bringing down another police sergeant, Alex Simms. The wounded officer was rushed to a hospital, where it was reported that he was mortally hurt. By this time there were more than 500,000 persons scattered in the adjoining streets. Traffic was completely halted and the excitement was so intense that the police were unable to move the throng.

Spectators flocked to the roofs of buildings where they could command a view of the conflict. A workman in the brewery yard near the Anarchistic retreat was wounded by a spent bullet. A spectator named John Oldman also fell wounded from a bullet which glanced from the pavement. At 1:55 o'clock the soldiers attacked the front and rear of the besieged house simultaneously pouring volley after volley through the tattered walls. The Anarchists returned the fire, directing a flood of lead from rifles and revolvers toward the ranks of the troops.

The burning straw in the basement had in the meantime ignited the woodwork and the building burst into flames. The soldiers and police drew off and ceased firing, but the imprisoned Anarchists made their last stand, keeping up a terrific fusillade from the upper stories. Even as the flames spread upward the besieged men refused to surrender. At 2:45 o'clock the Anarchists climbed through a trap upon the roof, bearing rifles and all the ammunition they could carry.

Men of All Nations in the London Anarchist Band

The anarchistic band is a strange mixture, its followers being made up of Russians, Americans, Italians, Hungarians and Englishmen. A number of the men are said to have returned only recently from America. The police found great quantities of literature in the raid which was made about ten days ago and gleaned valuable secrets from this. However, it was known that the Anarchists in the house had much more valuable information. It was for this reason that Scotland Yard impressed upon both soldiers and police the necessity of capturing the men alive. "Wound them if necessary, but do not kill them," was the order given.

BREAKS A COLD IN A DAY.

And Cures any Cough that is Curable; Noted Physician's Formula.

Get from any druggist "Two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Mix these with half a pint of good whiskey. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age." Any one can prepare this at home. This is the best formula known to science. There are many cheaper preparations of large quantity, but don't pay to experiment with a bad cold. Be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If the druggist does not have in stock he will get it quickly from his wholesale house.

Pine has been known for hundreds of years for its curative effects on the mucous membrane, but many extracts contain resins that cause nausea and rash. For safety get only that mentioned above.

Wu Ting Fang Is to Be Publicly Shorn of Queue.

SHANGHAI—One hundred and fifty leading Chinese citizens met at the residence of Wu Ting Fang, one time Minister to the United States, and decided to publicly cut off their queues on January 15. Wu Ting Fang is an enthusiastic supporter of this movement. While occupying the post of Chinese Minister to the United States for the second time Mr. Wu Ting Fang memorialized the throne in favor of the abolishment of the queue. Among his reasons was the fact that Chinese in North, Central and South America had been mocked and teased because of their queues, and that they had implored him to ask an imperial edict sanctioning the cropping of their hair and the adoption of costumes worn in the Western Hemisphere.

Vienna Nuncio Resigns.

ROME—The Pope has accepted the resignation of Monsignor Granito di Belmonte Pignatelli as Papal Nuncio at Vienna. From this the inference is drawn that the holding of a consistory cannot be near, as otherwise the Nuncio, who is one of those expected to be promoted to the cardinalate, would not have resigned. The conferring of a red hat on the Nuncio would have meant his withdrawal from Vienna.

Hamnerstein Invades Paris.

LONDON—Oscar Hammerstein, who some months ago began building an opera house in Kingsway, has been mysteriously on the move between London and the continent for the past few weeks and the rumor is spreading that he contemplates building an opera house in Paris, to bear the same relation to his London theatre that his Philadelphia house did to the Manhattan. It is a well known fact that Paris opera is of a pretty poor sort. The number of Americans living in Paris would alone warrant a first-class opera, and the French people undoubtedly would give it strong support.

Famous Sculptor Dead.

BERLIN—Professor Joseph Uphues, the sculptor, is dead. Joseph Uphues was one of the most eminent of modern German sculptors, and a large number of the works with which Berlin and other cities are lavishly decorated come from his studio.

MOTHER FINDS BOY AFTER 15 YEARS

Theme For New "Music Master" in Reunion; Musician-Father Grieves For His Boy.

Louis Meier, Jr., who with his father, formerly director of the Columbia orchestra in Boston, disappeared from this city fifteen years ago, following trouble between the boy's parents, has been found at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and to-day is on his way home to meet his mother. He was found after a country-wide search, during which he and his father were hidden in Oklahoma City. Young Meier, now about twenty years old, expects to reach Boston late this week.

Case Like Charlie Ross's.

The Meier case is almost a rival to that of Charlie Ross, who was kidnapped from Philadelphia many years ago.

The father, who is seriously ill at Oklahoma City, took his son away when the lad was four years old, and ever since the distressed mother, relatives and detectives have conducted a diligent search for the son.

For years the boy beseeched his father to tell him who his mother was and where she lived. The father, who was living under an assumed name, refused, because he believed that the boy would leave him and never return.

Determined to know about his mother, the younger Louis ran away from his father and roamed the western part of the country in his search, advertising in many newspapers to accomplish what he had set out to do. The only clue he possessed was a faded picture of his mother.

Hearing that his father was ill, the youth returned to nurse him but he kept up his search by means of the newspapers.

Found by His Uncle.

Yesterday, Robert Dutton, Mrs. Meier's brother, found the aged music master and his son, Louis, Jr., overjoyed, at once started for Boston.

The old music master was almost insane when the boy ran away three years ago. He vacillated in refusing to tell the insistent lad where his mother was, and the young man in recent years was determined to find her.

The heartbroken old man was restored to the last great misfortune of being separated from his son, and said: "My first love, my wife, left me. My second love, my boy, is gone now. If he loves his mother best, it is all right.

"Now I have nothing left but the dear old violin which I brought with me to America from Denmark twenty-five years ago. I once played for all the dramatic and operatic stars, but I would not go back before the footlights for all the money they receive."

For nineteen years I directed orchestras in and about Boston. I was leader of the Columbia orchestra, having headquarters at No. 38 Pearl street, Boston, in 1895 and 1896. I played for all the great actresses and actors, such as Henry Irving, Modjeska Carmencita and other celebrated ones.

Alvin Joslin Meier, boy taken West fifteen years ago by his father, Louis Meier, and who is now recording toward Boston to be reunited with his mother.

FIRST POSTAL BANK OPENED

The first postal savings bank to open in Massachusetts began business at 8 o'clock to-day at Norwood. There was not such a rush of business as was anticipated, Postmaster Frank A. Fales attributing this to some extent to the inclement weather. By noon deposits had been made by about twenty-five people, most of whom were women.

All of those who began a savings account with the government started with from $1 to $5. Mr. Fales said that he was not as yet ready to take larger accounts, but expected to be in a few days, when he would receive some further information than he now has from Washington.

Rain Hampers Business.

The bank business was conducted from the stamp window of the postoffice by Miss Anna R. Ellis, the assistant postmaster.

"No one may deposit more than $500," said Postmaster Fales. "We have not done as great a business as we expected because of the bad weather and because of the fact that it was not generally known that we were to be open for business to-day. I think things will liven up in a few days and that we shall do a big business."

A dispatch from Washington said that postal savings banks would be opened to-day in forty-eight cities and other towns throughout the country.

At Bristol, R. I., the first bank of the kind in that State was also opened to-day under the direction of Postmaster Edward J. Prest. It is in the hands of the assistant postmaster, William J. McSorley. There was a generous patronage. The postmaster said that if business justified it he would engage additional clerks.

Other postal banks opened in New England to-day were at Alexandria, Ct.; Berlin, N. H., and Montpelier, Vt.

Two Per Cent. Interest.

Two per cent. interest is paid per annum. No obstacle is placed to prevent a depositor from withdrawing an account at any time with accrued interest, but only one savings account at a time can be carried.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock announces that deposits will be placed in banks designated by the Board of Trustees, and will avoid the government 2½ per cent. "It is believed," the Postmaster-General says, "that this quarter of 1 per cent. difference between what the government pays the depositor and what the banks will pay the government will be sufficient to meet all necessary expenses of conducting the postal savings depositories."

The circulation of the AMERICAN is 300,000 more than its next highest competitor and 100,000 more than all the other evening papers of Boston combined.

MISSING BROKER DEAD IN HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—John Smith Rice of New York and Saranac Lake, whose wife asked the police to send out a general alarm for him, has been found in a Jersey City hospital dead. Thirteen years ago Rice disappeared with $5,000 cash in his pockets and was not heard of for four months. His wife applied for letters of administration of his estate, worth then $200,000, and when the letters were granted he returned. Rice again disappeared November 28.

OPPOSE CEMETERY AS ART SCHOOL SITE

Henry W. Putnam, counsel for the trustees of the Boston Latin School, has filed with the School Committee a protest against the city utilizing the old Kearsarge avenue burial ground in Roxbury, now in use as a playground for the Roxbury Latin School, as a site for the Girls' High School of Practical Arts.

THREE MEN HURT IN GAS EXPLOSION

WORCESTER, Jan. 3.—After hunting with a lighted match for the keyhole to turn on the acetylene gas in an express car, an employe of the Adams Express Company was hurled the length of the car with two fellow employes by an explosion that blew out the end and roof of the car at the Union station. The injured are H. Rosseau, Homer Spencer and Robert Holland.

FINAL DIVIDEND TO BANK STOCKHOLDERS

Ezra H. Baker, James M. Pendergast and William C. Williams, liquidating agents of the National Suffolk Bank of Boston, have sent out the seventh and final dividend in liquidation. The stockholders paid $127 per share for their stock and have received in liquidation $136.62.

PRINTING TRADES COUNCIL

Daniel J. McDonald of the City Council to-day began his sixteenth consecutive term as secretary-business-agent of the Boston Allied Printing Trades Council, and John J. O'Hare his second term as president of the council. Joseph J. Dallas was elected vice-president, with T. B. Spillane, Joseph Thompson and Miss Mary Wood for trustees.

MANY TO CLAIM EVANS MILLIONS

A petition to determine who is entitled to the twenty million dollar estate left by the late Robert D. Evans, formerly Postmaster Fred dent Taft's landlord at Beverly, after the death of the widow, means that the Evans family tree from its origin in the grandson-daughter of the Knight of Holt clinging two centuries ago with a Captain symonds of the British army probably will be spread out on the court records of Massachusetts.

Several persons in and around Boston who are comparatively poor, expect to get part of the estate and spend the rest of their lives in ease.

The petition was filed by the widow, Mrs. Maria A. Evans, with the Supreme Court sitting in Essex county.

Mrs. Evans resides in different parts of the world, who claim relationship to Evans. have already retained counsel to represent them.

Mrs. Evans's petition asks that a special commission be appointed to take the testimony of the following: Methuen; Charles H. Stevens of Cambridge; Harriet A. Paine of Somerville; George L. Hunting of Lawrence; Rev. Orville Leach of Stoughton, and also praying that a commission be issued out of this court to take the deposition in St. John, N. B., of Hubert Lawson Evans, for the purpose of showing who made the bequest and gift of $10,000 to Hubert Lawson Evans, late of Boston, Mass., deceased, to the end that the testimony may be perpetuated and be used at the trial of said cause.

"It is ordered that the petitioner give notice to all persons interested to appear before the Justice of this court sitting at Boston on Tuesday, the 7th day of February next, at nine and a half o'clock in the forenoon."

In the will probated by the widow, after Robert D. Evans' death, the estate was left exclusively for her use and enjoyment, with this controlling provision:

"And at her death, one-half of the residue is to go to my then heirs-at-law, they to take as by right of representation."

It is the evidence which makes the source or more of cousins, aunts, great-aunts and uncles evident that half of the great Evans fortune will be divided among them by the courts when the widow dies.

Estimate of $20,000,000.

Incidentally it has been brought out that whereas Mr. Evans paid taxes upon only $100,000 in personal property, the inventory of his estate showed that he possessed $10,494,825 in personal estate. The city and State, consequently, have lost thousands of dollars in taxes. Attorneys for claimants say that it is notorious that estates are under-inventoried to evade the State inheritance tax, and they believe the Evans fortune will total more than $20,000,000.

Until now Rene Evans Paine of Brookline, only child of Mrs. Evans' sister, Eliza, and Mrs. Margaret Burnham, widow of the wealthy milk contractor of that name and another niece of Mrs. Evans, have been commonly accepted as the fortunate heirs who are to divide the half share in the Evans fortune, should they survive Mrs. Evans, either half to be left in the will for disposition by the widow.

Besides their claim upon an old law which declares that the property of a deceased person may be inherited by relatives five times removed, other members of the famous Knight of Holt's grandslaughter are preparing to assert their rights.

Dolan & Dolan of No. 6 Beacon street, appear two of the thousands and more of children. All but one of these are the sons and daughters of Mrs. Ann Evans Donovan, whose grandfather was a brother of Robert Evans's grandfather.

The oldest of these children is James N. Dolan of No. 530 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, a tailor, with a family of seven children. Margaret Donovan is another son in the second oldest. She married Harry Donovan, a shoe fitting in Roxbury, and left a 12-year-old son, Harry Cushing Donovan, Jr., when she died recently.

Timothy Donovan of St. John, N. B., father of two sons, is third. Mrs. Lillian W. Keyes of No. 841 Dorchester avenue, who married Samuel Keyes, a market man, and has four children, is the fourth and youngest is George D. Donovan of Market road, Needham, proprietor of a fishing establishment at No. 18 Avery street, the city. He has two children.

TROLLEY CRASH: ASK FINE FOR 17 HURT: 3 DYING FLAG NEGLECT

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Slippery rails caused a collision between a Bay Ridge and a Fort Hamilton trolley car on the elevated trestle at Sixty-Third street and Fourth avenue, Brooklyn, today, by which seventeen persons were hurt and three are reported dying.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere —in cars and boats, the home and the club.

Signed by the national commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and officers of the department of Massachusetts and of posts in Boston, a petition has been filed at the State House asking for an amendment to the present school-house flag law. It is desired that a fine of five dollars be imposed on the principal of a school or other person having charge of a school building for neglect to comply with the law.

The Grand Army promise to tell a story of continuing neglect, despite its efforts to have the Boston school committee compel masters, principals and janitors to obey the law.

Edward O. Shelton of Dorchester, patriotic instructor for one of the Boston posts, and soon to occupy a similar position in the State organization, who n'ed the petition, says that the flying of the flag is needed, especially in Boston, not only for its influence upon children, but upon foreigners and other members of families.

In Boston, especially in the North End and certain portions of the South End, "are living practically all the year round children are of foreign parents and do not understand what the flag means. The only flag of which they have any idea is the kind from which they come, and that is the flag of oppression. They do not realize that this is the flag of freedom, and that their failure to understand this is a menace to our Government and its future.

"I have talked to five schools in one day and to as many as 5,000 pupils in a day. They go home and tell their parents what I have told them, and so I educate the grown-ups through the child. The flying of the flag helps to educate all."

BIG FORCE GUARD $1,500,000 REMOVAL

After having been packed in a strong vault at the sub-treasury in the Federal building, $1,500,000 in crisp, new $20 gold certificates was moved today to the Charles town navy yard under guard of Paymaster Jordan, a squad of marines, secret service men and police inspectors. At the navy yard the new currency is packed into a dozen steel safes on the United States supply ship Celtic, to be taken to Guantanamo, Cuba, to pay off thousands of Uncle Sam's bluejackets and marines in port after a cruise through British, French and other foreign waters.

Splendid for Old People

When the human system declines the accumulated poisons in the blood cause rheumatic pains in the joints, muscles and back. These warnings should be heeded before the more serious illness avoided by using the following prescription which shows wonderful results even after the first few doses. It will eventually restore physical vigor. "One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Toris compound; half pint of Hub rye. Mix and shake well." This treatment has the double effect of rheumatism eradicator and system builder. A prominent local druggist states that this prescription is constantly being refilled. Those who have tried it are enthusiastic over the results.

MRS. KILDARE IS REMARRIED

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Many of the friends of Owen Kildare, author and playwright, and those of the humble position of bartender in a Bowery dive to be sure of the most successful writers of the time, will be dumfounded to learn that the wife of the incarceration in the Manhattan State hospital on Wards Island his wife, who was the beautiful Lelia Russell Bogardus, has quietly had her marriage to him annulled and has married Lieutenant Commander Charles A. Adams, U. S. N., retired.

In spite of these circumstances the young woman still retains no strong an interest in her first husband that she and her young daughter visit him every other day at the hospital. Mrs. Adams's orders to the physicians in charge of her former husband are that he shall have everything in the world that he wants, and that at the slightest expression of a wish to see her she shall be sent for.

Kildare's "Good Angel."

Meanwhile, in a big circle of her old friends she is still called Mrs. Kildare, and most of them have no neglected that she has married again. To another circle, a far more exclusive one, into which she has been introduced by her present husband, she is known only as Mrs. Adams, and there is no thought among them that the talented matron whom Kildare once described as "the good angel to whose influence I owe my reformation," has ever married before.

As Mrs. Adams she has assiduously pursued her literary work, mingling freely with those friends who knew her best before the unfortunate incident which deprived her husband of his reason. As Mrs. Adams she has created a social position unthought of before and has devoted a large part of her time to charitable and religious work. She is active in the Society for the Relief of Destitute Children, and last Thursday spoke on behalf of the organization at a meeting of the Actors' Church Alliance held in this city.

No Secret to Either Man.

Commander Adams knew all about his wife's previous marriage, and Mrs. Adams says Owen Kildare knows of and approves of the course she has taken. She made no secret with him of the fact that she intended to marry Commander Adams, when she says, and told him frankly when she intended to marry Commander Adams. Their confidence did not extend beyond her first and second husbands, however, which accounts for the surprise the news must prove to the old friends of herself and Kildare.

As Lelia Bogardus, the present Mrs. Adams came here from Detroit. She was very pretty and had made considerable progress in both literary and stage work when she met Kildare. The latter, whose speaking of Lelia when he first described himself as a "Bowery beer slinger" to a newspaper interviewer and playwright was one of the wonders of the literary world, began to court her, and fell in love with her. He was then struggling to educate himself, and Miss Bogardus helped him in his work. They were finally married, and then came Kildare's great book, "My Mamie Rose," which first introduced people to call him "Bowery Kipling." This book was afterward dramatized by Arnold Daly under the name of "Regeneration."

Injured in Subway Station.

Kildare and his wife had a child, a little girl, and it was shortly after its birth that the writer had his accident. He was crossing the platform of the Times square subway station, striking heavily on the back of his head. He was taken to the New York Hospital, and later discharged as cured. Kildare was never right, however, and after that. He became very violent at times, and once, when he threatened the lives of his wife and child, he was arrested and committed to Bellevue.

After a relapse he became worse than ever, and was finally taken to Blooming-dale. Mrs. Kildare was almost constantly with him during this time. She had him moved to Bellevue hospital, where the family told her the case was hopeless, and then to Ward's Island, being sent to the Manhattan State Hospital.

It was soon after this that Mrs. Kildare went to Massachusetts, where she had married Kildare, and had her marriage to Commander Adams annulled. She has been a constant visitor and where she will now likely go at least three times a week, and oftener if he sends for her, her address is given as No. 350 East Twenty-first street. This is the home of Miss Blanche Moore, a writer and theatrical agent. She is a great friend of Mrs. Adams and one of the few who knew her second Commander Adams and his wife have apartments at the Raleigh, No. 7 West Ninety-second street.

Statement by Mrs. Adams.

Mrs. Adams, who is a youthful looking and pretty as ever, wuen seen yesterday, said:

"On my husband's account I am sorry that my second marriage has become known. There is nothing, however, to conceal. I could see no possible purpose to be served in publishing my private affairs to the world, especially as they are of foreign parents and do not understand what the flag means. The only flag of which they have any idea is the kind from which they come, and that is the flag of oppression. They do not realize that this is the flag of freedom, and that their failure to understand this is a menace to our Government and its future.

"I have talked to five schools in one day and to as many as 5,000 pupils in a day. They go home and tell their parents what I have told them, and so I educate the grown-ups through the child. The flying of the flag helps to educate all."

SUSPECT WOMAN IN POISON CASE

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 3.—In the family of pretty Grace Elosser, who, with her fiancé, was found dead on her wedding eve after a fatal kiss, an arrest is expected today which may solve one of the weirdest poison mysteries ever uncovered. It is hinted that a woman is the suspected party.

States Attorney David A. Robb today virtually admitted that if suspicions, which his investigators entertain, are confirmed, the arrest would be made immediately.

This person is declared to have poisoned the chewing gum which Charles Edward Twigg had in his mouth when found still grasping in death his bride-to-have-been. The confection, said to be laden with deadly poison, is under examination now by expert chemists.

The State's Attorney's admission followed a secret visit to Keyser, W. Va., the home of the dead man. "I think I have found a most important clew," said Mr. Robb on his return. "We are practically certain that this is a case of murder—the strangest I have ever had anything to do with." More he would not divulge.

House Thoroughly Ransacked.

The Elosser household was thoroughly ransacked and will be gone through again. The authorities are extremely anxious to determine the exact hour of death. Their anxiety is grounded on the fact that, they assert, it was half an hour after the couple were found sitting together on the bed before a doctor or any person outside the family was called in. This would have given ample opportunity for any guilty person within the house to have removed any bottle or vial containing the deadly cyanide that had been so ingeniously administered of the chewing gum was not the medium.

It is the theory of the police that Mary Twigg, sister of her husband, and a sweetheart of Elosser family, after the question was popped. They say she had introduced Twigg to her sister Grace, told him that she never had known of anybody having a quarrel of consequence with her sister. According to Mr. Robb, May Elosser told him that some six weeks ago she had a little difference with Grace.

Report of the Family "Spat."

Mr. Robb reports that May said this little "spat" was brought about through fact that one day both bought the same kind of a hat. This petty quarrel, according to the State Attorney, the two girls made up. May declared to Mr. Robb seven, that she knew of nobody who had quarrelled with Grace over the young man in the case.

The theory of suicide is scouted by the close relatives and friends of the dead man and girl. Most of them are firm in the belief that the two were murdered, and it is suspected that a woman's jealousy was the motive. No trace whatever of a poison has been found.

The result of the examination of the candy and chewing gum found in the Elosser home is awaited with intense interest. Meanwhile the theory that the poisoned chewing gum may have been the cause of the girl's many suppers.

A piece of chewing gum was found in Twigg's mouth, no explanation is offered as to how the confection became poisoned, or as to how it was administered to Miss Elosser except by a kiss declared innocently. The candy was partaken of by other members of the household without any ill effects, which would seem to dispose of its connection with the case.

Twigg Made His Will.

The authorities are working on the case apparently with a view that the death were not suicidal in character. Dr. Kenny, one of the physicians who made the autopsy, confirmed the belief that death was caused by cyanide poisoning. The potassium cyanide, and that death must have followed very quickly after the taking of the poison into their systems.

It developed today that Twigg had made a will bequeathing his property to his mother, brother and sister-in-law. He recently had insured his life for $30,000.

Another fact that leads Mr. Robb to believe that the two were murdered, and that Twigg was the victim of a mileage book.

Funeral services in honor of the tragedy will be held to-day and it is not improbable that a very important developments until this afternoon or to-morrow.

The coroinships were short. Twigg having only met the girl a few days before. His first having paid attention to May, left the courtship to his younger brother. The engagement, very short. May and Grace Elosser looked very much alike, almost so much so as if they might have been twins.

May Arrest a Woman.

Coroner Franklin B. Beall, who is holding the coroner's jury already selected in readiness for the call of State's Attorney Robb, said the persistent reports about a woman in the case would be investigated.

It is claimed that Twigg had no business in Cumberland Saturday, that he came at a time when the girl was busy with her wedding preparations.

She could not well spare the time to see him. Twigg declared, may have been one of design. An empty gelatine capsule was found on the floor.

GRAGG PRESIDENT OF FIRST REGIMENT

Captain Luke K. Lundy presided at the Regiment Association at the American House last evening, when these officers were chosen: President, Corporal Isaac P. Gragg; secretary, Lieutenant Albert N. Austin; treasurer, Sergeant Harrison Whittemore. A quartet in white and spangled was selected as the offering of the association to the Ladies' Fair, and the energetic effort is to be made by the association to celebrate fittingly shape the coming fiftieth anniversary.

DOG, MUTT, BARRED FROM WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Samuel Woodhouse Dickey, who is endeavoring to walk from New York to San Francisco for a wager of $10,000 in 110 days, stopped in Washington long enough to exchange New Year's greeting with President Taft at the White House. Accompanying him on his transcontinental trip is his dog Mutt. As dogs are not permitted at the White House, Mutt was cared for by an attache of the executive mansion while his master shook hands with the President.

TRY THIS IF YOU ACHE ALL OVER FROM A BAD COLD OR THE GRIPPE

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or end grippe so promptly as a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatic pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

MRS. DODGE, ON TRIAL TO-DAY ON MURDER CHARGE

DODGE BAIL IS NOW $12,000

GUILDHALL, Vt., Jan. 3.—The trial of Mrs. J. Marshall Dodge, wife of a former sheriff of Essex County, and the wealthiest woman in Lunenburg, who is charged with killing William Heath, a painter, while he was at work in her home last September, was called to-day and postponed until the first Tuesday in April. He bail was raised to $12,000.

The motion to postpone was made by Harry Blodgett, senior counsel for Mrs. Dodge. He asked for a continuance because his associate, Harland B. Howe, is ill at his home. Attorney General John G. Sargent and States Attorney Harry B. Amey, who appeared for the government made no objection and the motion to postpone was granted.

Court opened at 10 o'clock for the calling of the cases. Mrs. Dodge arrived at the court housebefore before. She was released under $5,000 bonds. The indictment against her charging her with murder in the first degree was read. Mrs. Dodge betrayed no emotion as the document charging her with deliberately shooting William Heath was read.

Following the granting of the motion for a continuance Attorney-General Sargent moved that the defendant's bail be raised from $5,000 to $12,000. Judge Stanton granted this motion. Mrs. Dodge was then given into the care of High Sheriff Hoskins on bonds. The indictment against her charging her with murder in the first degree was read. Mrs. Dodge betrayed no emotion as the document charging her with deliberately shooting William Heath was read.

Following the granting of the motion for a continuance Attorney-General Sargent moved that the defendant's bail be raised from $5,000 to $12,000. Judge Stanton granted this motion. Mrs. Dodge was then given into the care of High Sheriff Hoskins on bail until her relatives raised the additional $7,000 surety.

Three justices presided at to-day's proceedings. They are Judge Stanton and two associates, Judge McIlmain and Judge Brown. Judge Brown was the justice of the peace before whom Mrs. Dodge was first arraigned. He has since been made a judge. He is a Democrat. Counsel by marriage and will preside wit hthe other two judges when the trial of the murder takes place.

Heath was shot while painting the interior of Mrs. Dodge's home. Mrs. Dodge herself gave the alarm. It was at first thought that he was a suicide, but the autopsy showed that he could not have shot himself.

Mrs. Dodge was indicted. She has never been in jail. So far the government has been unable to supply a motive, as Mrs. Dodge's past life is blameless. Heath was shot with Mrs. Dodge's revolver. This much she admits.

OPEN SHOW OF BOSTON CIGARS

Two hundred different brands of cigars, including all the popular shapes from five to thirty-five cents, were placed on exhibition in the Chamber of Commerce library by Cigarmakers' Union No. 97, in an endeavor to boom the sale of Boston-made goods. Every cigar in the exhibit was manufactured in Boston, and fifty of the 165 cigar manufacturers doing business in this city are represented.

There are 2,500 cigarmakers at present employed in this city, with an average yearly payroll of $2,000,000. Edward Brodrick, president of the union, and William Sundrumbe, president of the Central Labor Union, Conference, are in charge of the exhibit, the entire expense of which is born by the local union.

WESTFIELD BANK LOSS OVER $60,000

WESTFIELD, Jan. 3.—Following the declaration of the usual semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent. on deposits, the directors of the Westfield Savings Bank have announced that the shortage to the bank's funds, due to the manipulation of its treasurer, Velenus W. Crowson, will not exceed $60,000. It is believed that the defence of Crowson will be that the statute of limitation will absolve him. It is stated that his declaration that he has taken no money from the bank for eleven years is the basis for the plea that will be made that the statute of limitation will intervene.

COTTON PRICES HIGHER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The cotton market opened stead to-day with prices from 5 to 8 points higher. There was good demand from the spot interests and from cables were firm. There was some selling for Liverpool on the advance, but the offerings were all well absorbed.

RICH WELLESLEY WOMAN IS SUED

Mrs. Ilone Myers, a wealthy Wellesley woman and prominent in club and social circles in that town, has been sued for $20,000 by the wife of her chauffeur, Mrs. George W. Lidstone, who charges Mrs. Myers with stealing the affections of her husband.

The suit was filed by Attorney William Burns, for Mrs. Lidstone, in the Superior Court at Dedham to-day. Mrs. Lidstone declares that her husband's employer unfully alienated the affections of George W. Lidstone, the chauffeur, kissed him and addressed him in endearing terms.

Mrs. Anna E. Lidstone, the plaintiff, sets forth in her suit that she and her husband were married in Brookline on June 5, 1900. She says further that they lived happily together in Brookline until December 12, 1909.

She declares that her husband went to work for Mrs. Myers as her chauffeur in May, 1910, and that shortly afterward his manner changed toward her.

Mrs. Lidstone left her husband a week ago. She committed a lawful act in the suit against Mrs. Myers was filed to-day.

The instance of a suit being filed against Mrs. Myers or that part of it which specifically charges her with stealing the affections of her husband follows: "And the defendant continuing, wilfully and intentionally to injure the plaintiff and deprive her of the love, comfort, society and affection of said George W. Lidstone and to alienate and destroy his affection for her unlawfully and unjustly gained the affection and comfort of said husband and unlawfully and enticed her husband to stay away from his home and to neglect said plaintiff."

HAVERHILL STREET TO BE REPAVED

When a delegation of business men called on Superintendent Hunter to urge street department to protect against the present condition of Haverhill street, they were told of plans for repaving the street and the work had been delayed because the Boston Transit commission had been using part of the street for storage purposes. The estimated cost is $15,000, and the work will be begun as early in the Spring as the weather will permit.

"HONEST SAM" LORD DEAD AT SACO, ME.

SACO, Me., Jan. 3.—"Honest Sam" Lord, whose famous lock shop had for years been the gathering place of prominent Democrats and State men, and where many councils of the Democratic party had been held, is dead at his home in this city. He was three times Mayor of the city, and in 1906 was a candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket.

PHELPS ASKS NEW TRIAL.

GREENFIELD, Jan. 3.—Exceptions saved by counsel for the defence in the recent trial of Silas F. Phelps of Bernardston, who was found guilty of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Hoskins on June 12, have been filed at the office of the clerk of the Superior Court.

VERDICT AWAITED IN D'AULBY CASE

"Count" Accused by Mrs. Paine Is Called a "High-Flying Swindler."

TOURS, France, Jan. 3.—A verdict is expected today in the celebrated case in which the "Count" D'Aulby de Gatigny is charged by the Duchess of Chobsel-Praslin, formerly Mrs. Hamilton Paine of Boston, of swindling her out of $200,000 through the sale of spurious pictures.

The public prosecutor, in his closing argument, admitted that there was a connection with the picture "Antiope," which the Paines purchased for $15,000, but had not been proved, but compared also the accusations concerning the Mignard and Coods had been fully established.

He characterized D'Aulby de Gatigny as a "high-flying swindler and adventurer, who lived luxuriously by throwing powder into the eyes of his victims." The prosecutor also emphasized the attempted fraud in connection with a pretended contract between D'Aulby and Mrs. Paine and read the subscription said to have been written by the defendant to Mrs. Paine after their friendship had ceased. The prosecutor said that he would abandon the case against the "Countess" D'Aulby.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—An interesting side show to the French d'Aulby drama is being played in England. News has already been sent by cable of how the Russian officer, Alexander Tscheroin-Boff, was hailed before Paul Taylor, the Magistrate of the Marylebone Police Court, charged with conspiring against the prosecution Duchesse de Chobsel. Details of that proceeding are remarkable.

M. Tscheroindieff, who appeared to be about fifty-six years old, wore a heavy and valuable fur-lined coat, and was allowed to retain his seat at the examination being conducted by H. Percy Becher, who appeared to prosecute. In opening the case he detailed the charge "threat to publish" or to abstain from publishing certain matters and things touching Lucy Tate de Chobsel (formerly Paine), with intent thereby to extort money. He said it was popularly known as "blackmail."

Plot Began in Paris.

The story he had to tell the court began in France. The prisoner was alleged by the prosecution to be a party to a conspiracy among a number of people to blackmail a woman. The alleged history of this conspiracy was this: Charles Hamilton Paine of Boston, U. S. A., a wealthy American, and his wife, in the habit of traveling in Europe, made the acquaintance of the prisoner. The wife, Mary Tate Hamilton Paine, was left a widow in September, 1905, and had previously remarried, her name now being Lucy Tate de Chobsel. In her late husband's lifetime they desired to start an establishment in Paris, and made the acquaintance of a man who passed by several titles, including that of Count D'Aulby, but who, in fact, was merely an adventurer known as Charles Edward D'Aulby, the son of a tailor at Bridlington in Essex. This man obtained their friendship and confidence, and having posed as an expert in works of art he offered to superintend the furnishing of their house, to supply from his own chateau in Tours a number of old masters for the furnishing of the house. This was done between 1908 and September, 1909.

D'Aulby Claimed $200,000.

When Mr. Paine died there were in the house of the Paines in Paris some of these alleged old masters, and D'Aulby put forward a claim for $200,000—the price of the old masters, and other things supplied for the house. He also alleged that he held in his possession a letter from the late Mr. Paine agreeing to pay that money to him for the things. An alleged copy of that letter had been seen by an agent of Mme. de Chobsel, but no original had ever been produced. The claim being restated, an attempt was made to enforce it through a solicitor in London, a Mr. Behrend of Surrey Street, Strand, whose connection with this matter seemed to call for an explanation. He wrote to a firm of attorneys in Boston asking them to take up the action against the executors of the late Mr. Paine. The prosecution was not in possession of that letter, but had a copy of the reply sent by Behrend to D'Aulby in France. In the letter from Roper, Gray & Goreham, the Boston attorneys, these men took what counsel thought every one would agree was an extremely proper attitude with regard to the letter from Mr. Behrend. They wrote: "The conspicuous feature in the case must have been so distasteful to you as it is to us. We see no reason or justification for your client rehearsing to you all the scandal, reopening the relations between him and the Paines. His willingness to disclose these features certainly by him open to the suspicion of being the blackmail the Paine family. We see no possible connection between these facts and the contract of sale which he states he made with Mr. Paine.

Limit Intimated.

If we are to have anything whatever to do with the matter it must be on the understanding that we are to limit ourselves to the pertinent legal facts and ignore utterly the other features. We are not willing to handle this or any other matter in a manner which would lay us open to the suspicion of being willing to bolster up a legal claim by threatening to publish scandals which may lead your client to desire to have the matter handled by other attorneys here. If for this or any other reason he desires to intrust the matter to others we will, of course, turn over the papers to any one whom he designates."

Mrs. Paine declined to pay the claim and the attempt at disguised blackmail, in the form of a legal action, with the threat to publish letters in the background, was abandoned. Open attempts were then made, however, to obtain money in exchange for these letters. Mrs. Paine's conduct in the matter had been consistent throughout. From the first she absolutely declined to traffic with the people who were offering to sell the letters, or to pay one farthing for the suppression of them. But some perhaps overzealous friends and relatives of hers were anxious to find out whether any such letters really had an existence.

Meetings consequently took place in Paris, but no original letters were ever produced, all that was ever being in the book of typewritten documents, which were said to be copies of these letters. It also appeared from a letter written by the prisoner that photos were also in existence of alleged letters written by Mrs. Paine. But these open attempts at blackmail absolutely failed. Mrs. Paine then had the "old masters" examined, and found that they were forgeries—the information—whereupon she laid the facts before the government officials in France, with the result that D'Aulby was arrested there on April 15, and had been in custody there ever since.

Attempts Continue.

One would have thought that this action by Mrs. Paine would have put an end to the attempts at blackmail, but, as a matter of fact, these attempts had been continued in Paris, outside the prison, down to the present day, and the nature of the tempts was made through the prisoner. He wrote a letter to a M. Dolbet in Paris, in reply to an inquiry, and that letter was in the hands of the present proceedings. Also some of D'Aulby's friends, the prisoner passed as a count, but, in point of fact, he was a Russian of the peasant class named Kenkewsky. The latter question purported to have been written, and one would was, at the Portland Hotel, Great Portland street, although the prisoner did not live there.

A warrant was obtained for his arrest and was executed by Chief Inspector Bower at No. 36 Goldhawk road. The future hearings of the cases, added counsel, were rendered difficult by the fact that the trial of D'Aulby would take place that day week at Tours, and all the witnesses—of whom there were about ninety—who were material in this case, would have to be in attendance there. Under those circumstances the prosecution did not object to the prisoner being admitted to bail, but in view of the fact that no less than a British subject was trying to guard to other facts well known to the prisoner himself, the bail must be substantial.

Chief Inspector Ellis Bower gave evidence of arrest and said he was told the prisoner was not a "Count," but had not lived at the Portland Hotel for four months. Asked if his name was Count Tscheroindieff, he said it was. In reply to the charge he said, "I do not know Count d'Aulby, but he is in prison in France." Turning to a lady present, he remarked, "D'Aulby's accuser ch—d him with obtaining 200,000 francs from her about some pictures. Sergeants Burton and Humphreys searched his apartments and took possession of a large number of letters and a quantity of memoranda. Later the prisoner asked the witness to telephone to Mr. Behrend, solicitor, of Surrey street, to come and see him, adding: 'I want Mme. Paine's letters.'" Witness telephoned, but Mr. Behrend was not present.

Could Produce Photos.

George Rodier of No. 78 rue d'Anjou, Paris, said he was now staying at the Charing Cross hotel. He knew the prisoner slightly by the name Baron Tscheroindieff, and first met him at the Cafe Royale in May or June last. The prisoner mentioned that Count D'Aulby knew Mrs. Paine, and that she was trying to put him in prison. He also said that Mrs. Paine had written to D'Aulby, and that the letters had been sent to London to be sheltered from the Paris police.

STAY KENT EXECUTION.

WINDSOR, Vt., Jan. 3.—Elroy Kent, who has been in solitary confinement in the prison here for some months, awaiting execution on January 13, has been respreved by Governor John A. Mead. He will not be executed, if at all, until January 5, 1912.

ADIEU PARTY TO LE BLANC GIRL

WEST ARICHAT, Jan. 3.—Hattie Le Blanc's friends here are planning to give her a little send-off before she enters the Convent de l'Assomption at Arichat next Sunday. Just what will be the nature of the surprise West Arichat people have in store for the little girl, acquitted of the charge of the murder of Clarence F. Glover of Waltham, Mass., is being kept a secret.

It seems likely that gifts will be made that will be of practical value to her during her term at the convent.

Since her return home nearly two weeks ago, Hattie has become quite a favorite. Few knew her before her home coming. This was to be expected, because when she left home to go to Waltham she was only fourteen and no different from the other little girls of the town. She was seen about the streets, but not particularly noticed.

But now, Hattie seems but to go down the road from her home on Forgeron Point to bring forth windows to take a peek at her. However, this feeling of curiosity has worn off somewhat, most of the women having appeased their curiosity. She has made friends on all sides.

Had Another Trial.

At first there was a good deal of speculation as to how she might ultimately be received in the homes here. Sentiment favored her when she was on trial at East Cambridge, and try to find a family in which the gossip was unfavorable to Hattie would be like looking through the haystack to find the proverbial needle. But when her return was announced the feeling became uppermost to know if Hattie could really become a part of the community—could really settle down to a simple, quiet, pastoral life, after her experiences in the States.

It resulted that Hattie was again put on trial here, it was a different trial from that on a charge of murder, that is true. But it was a trial, nevertheless. She never realized it. She never knew that folks were weighing her in the balance and that her future in West Arichat depended on what the verdict would be.

Even at the present time, much of the opinion is in the formative stage. Some have not fully made up their minds on Hattie Le Blanc. But everybody is prepossessed in her favor. So the effect is that Hattie has it in her power to make good. And those who know her best say there is no doubt she will become a mature woman, who will prove a valuable asset to the social life of the village.

Future in Own Hands.

The little winsome traits of the little girl probably account for the liking most people have for her. She is cheery, bright, agilish, rosy cheeked and saucy. Since no time has she been inclined to be offish or show conceit. In her manner she seemed just like any other seventeen-year-old girl on the island.

People here say that it is up to her to mould her future. She seems to have started right, and no slip is likely to make good.

"I don't want to disappoint anybody," she said to-day. "These people have been too nice. They are very kind. I can't tell them how much I owe them now. I on be of use to myself and to my father and mother."

Father Robitaille has really overworked himself in looking out for Hattie's welfare. It is seldom he isn't attending to some duties connected with her affairs or keeping an eye over her. It was through him that she was enabled to come home and then plan to enter the convent at Arichat.

Hattie is now a communicant at the West Arichat church. Her religious devotion seems to be thoroughly sincere. Scarcely unless the daily mass, and has attended twice on Sunday.

There has been no lessening in the girl's mail, despite the fact that Christmas and New Year's have passed. She has received many gifts of clothing materials from Boston admirers, and these will go into her little stock with which she will go, at present. Through these gifts she has seen her wardrobe increased by the addition of seven woolen sweaters.

Hattie will soon enter the convent with her sister Lillian. The two will be driven to the convent by their parents. There is talk of planning a farewell party to accompany them to the doors of the convent.

500 CHINESE QUEUES FALL IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Queue cutting is the most popular sport in Chinatown just now. The fashion has been set in China by imperial edict, but it is only within the last few weeks that the New York Chinese have taken it up in earnest. In that time more than 500 pigtails have fallen.

NEW BARITONE HEARD IN OTELLO

When Oscar Hammerstein, the Manhattan of grand opera, was sitting trouble with a baritone named Dufranne a year ago he uttered the following epigram: "I don't care. The woods are full of good baritones."

The procession of distinguished baritones that have taken turns at the role of Iago in "Otello," since the beginning of the Boston season, is remarkable. Amato, Ballo, Scotti, Sammarco, Ruffo and, last night, Polese have been heard in this great part.

Polese comes to the Boston Opera House because since the defection of Scotti, a good baritone was badly needed, and Dalmorès, by his Iago, which is an excellent thing to judge by the fits the fits.

Polese was with the Hammerstein company for several years and came to Boston directly from Europe. In manner and facial expression his Iago resembles Amato and his voice is not great dissimilar.

His conception of the role was conscientious. He was a bold, ruthless scoundrel and a crafty one. He had will power and authority and in the great ensemble of the second act he was commanding.

Zenatello sang with good taste and great vocal skill throughout. Although he was physically unable of getting the oath over against the tremendous orchestration of Verdi.

Frances Alda was charming as Desdemona, Chassevna and Mardones effective in their respective roles. The latter sang with expression and power. It was on the whole a splendid performance.

WEST ARICHAT HAS A ROMANCE

WEST ARICHAT, Jan. 3.—A romance that started in a performance of Cinderella in the Catholic church here will culminate next month when Lucy Forgeron, daughter of Michael Forgeron, of Point Rich, Arichat, becomes the bride of Rev. Edward Robitaille, who has known the couple since they were children, will assist the bridegroom at the altar, and will attract much attention from people on Isle Madame.

Young Terrio came home on a visit last Winter. He was invited to take part in a musical setting of Cinderella, staged in the church. To him was given the role of the prince, while Miss Forgeron, whom he had lost seen as a little girls, was cast in the title role.

The play proved a success, and it brought no announced that the wedding will be about January 15. When I looked up, I saw that Cinderella was indeed fair to look upon.

We fell in love, somehow, mutual love.

We were engaged in August. I came home from the States again just before Christmas."

The bride-to-be is a talented musician, a member of the church choir and a leader in the social life of West Arichat. She was educated in a Montreal convent. Her fiance received his education in Boston. The couple are regarded as one of the handsomest on the island.

SAFE BLOWN AT PITTSFIELD, N. H.

PITTSFIELD, N. H., Jan. 3.—At 1:45 o'clock the safe in the postoffice was blown open by burglars, who escaped with $1,000 in stamps. The Tuttle's Red Mill Savings bank, the personal property of Postmaster Frank Brown, were taken, but the robbers failed to secure a large amount of money and supplies in an inner steel compartment of the safe.

Two explosions, apparently from nitroglycerine, were heard by residents of the vicinity. In Mt. Niles, who lives directly opposite the postoffice building, raised a window and shouted for help, and was fired on by the robbers, who, however, missed. Being alarmed, the robbers made no effort to gather the money, thoroughly alarmed the burglars made off in an automobile, which was hitched near the postoffice. They had placed on the inner compartment

The explosions of the safe blew off the front door of the postoffice building, and the safe, portions of which were found outside the building, was badly wrecked. The explosion also wrecked the outer doors of the safe, portions of which were found outside the building, and the safe, portions of which were found outside the building. The explosion also wrecked the outer doors of the safe, portions of which were found outside the building, and the safe, portions of which were found outside the building. The explosion also shattered the letter boxes. Entrance to the postoffice was gained by breaking out one of the side windows and the tools used by the burglars were found in the yard. Both trains of the Boston & Maine Railroad passing through Pittsfield were held here by the police, and a thorough search was made of all baggage.

Business Success Through Publicity
No. 9

Old Methods of Business versus New

Time was when the merchant put out a sign, sat down in his store and waited for customers to come. Now he sends out to bring customers into his store. The best way to bring people into a store is advertising in the local newspapers.

Consider the insurance field. A well known company suffered a $8,000,000 loss in the San Francisco earthquake. It came almost in a day. Its offices were at their wits' end to know how to recoup.

It decided by advertising to educate people to the value of choosing a particular insurance company rather than any one the agent selected. Day in and day out it told those who contemplated insurance why they should select it as the company in which to insure.

The business has jumped by leaps and bounds. Other insurance companies are looking on with amazement. The business all the while is coming in, and in every centre where the insurance company has an agent he is writing more and more business.

There are four kinds of advertising. Here they are in the order of their value and importance—Newspapers, because of the strong concentration in the large centres, magazines, because of their value in reaching the country generally, billboards and street cars, for restricted publicity.

The best newspaper advertising is in the paper that reaches the most people. The Boston American has nearly 400,000 circulation, of which 300,000 is in Greater Boston. The population of Greater Boston is 1,400,000. As there are four and a fraction to every family the total number of families in the 1,400,000 would be approximately 300,000.

The Boston American, therefore, reaches nearly two-thirds of the number of families in Greater Boston.

If you have something that you can sell to these families it is the best medium for your advertising.

Address the Boston American, Trade Aid Department, for further particulars along these lines.

The American Leads Them All

ADVERTISING GAINS

Over Four Thousand Columns

IN ONE YEAR—1910

THIS is the greatest advertising gain of any Daily and Sunday Newspaper east of the Rocky Mountains. It equals, within a few columns, the combined gain of the other three Boston papers having Daily and Sunday editions during 1910.

This magnificent showing but accords with the tremendous circulation of the AMERICAN of nearly 400,000.

And certainly no more splendid tribute was ever paid to a newspaper than that to the AMERICAN during the past year by Boston merchants who in the apportionment of their advertising appropriations not only gave a large share but, in many instances, gave the major part of their entire appropriation to the AMERICAN.

There is every logical reason for this—for with a circulation like that of the Evening AMERICAN alone—300,000 more than its next highest competitor and 100,000 more than all the other evening papers in Boston combined, a circulation that is home-going and read in the family circle at a time when advertising always receives the most careful attention—such success is inevitable.

And furthermore—no newspaper in the world, in so short a period of development as six years, has ever made the progress in both Circulation and Advertising as has the AMERICAN.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

LODGE ARRIVES LATE FOR SPEECH TO-NIGHT

Here are the latest up-to-the-minute happenings of to-day in the battle for the United States senatorship and in the Massachusetts speakership contest:

Senator Lodge was behind his schedule in arriving for his "apology" rally in Symphony Hall to-night. It was said he might get into town at 3 o'clock and might not reach here from Oyster Bay until 6 o'clock.

His faithful followers thronged the lobby of the Hotel Touraine awaiting his arrival.

Next in importance as a subject of conversation among the waiting faithful to the last on which Mr. Lodge will speak to-night was the rebuke administered by Governor-elect Foss to Henry M. Whitney for his assertion of the reciprocity cause and his advocacy of Lodge.

Lomasney and Walker Confident.

Both Martin M. Lomasney and Speaker Walker profess themselves confident of success in the speakership contest. Neither will give any figures.

The Lomasney men assert the Donovan-Keliher faction of the Boston Democracy will be with them to-night's caucus, will vote to nominate Lomasney and will vote for him on the secret ballot in the House to-morrow.

Also from the Lomasney headquarters comes the claim that the followers of Representative Charles F. McCarthy of Marlboro are deserting him for Lomasney, but Mr. McCarthy has not withdrawn from the contest.

Groups of politicians who assembled at the Hotel Touraine to greet Senator Lodge were disappointed when informed by Secretary Clark that the senator would not arrive in Boston till late afternoon.

For lack of being able to talk with the big chief, the politicians gathered in groups at the hotel talking over the situation. Joe Peterson, former Mayor of Salem, was one of the early ones, and he expressed the feeling that the election was as good as settled. Eben Keith of Sandwich and Herbert Hinckley, the State committeeman from the Cape, talked in a confident way.

Bitter Against Weeks.

Yet for all of the bravery, the Lodge fight is now in the most critical stage. The second choice talk has become a reality in the way it is being handled.

One thing made plain to-day is that the Lodge people are very bitter on Congressman Weeks. They have indicted him on several points.

That his original declaration for Lodge did not come soon enough; that he has allowed talk of him as the second choice to come to the front; that while he could not come to Boston during the beginning of the Lodge fight he found time to come as soon as he was being mentioned; that to his knowledge or otherwise his friends in Boston are making an actual canvass for him, are the charges.

As a result the statement was made to-day that if the Lodge men got into the last ditch their votes would not go over for Weeks under any conditions.

Speaker Walker is the man who is being talked of as the real second choice and the boom is growing daily.

Walker, honestly and sincerely is reiterating that this is not the time for second choice talk.

"My declaration for Senator Lodge," he said, "is the result of my examination of his position on tariff matters. If he were not in harmony with the plans which I believe Republicans as a whole stand for, I would be against him. He is not, therefore, under favor to me for my support. For that reason I have no sympathy with the second choice talk."

Crane Expected To-Day.

The AMERICAN is able to say again to-day what it said exclusively on Sunday, that whether he will or not, in the event of the break a number of votes will be thrown directly to Walker on the floor. The Ames people will take the lead and at least forty votes are credited as being already pocked in his direction out of the Republican total.

Senator Crane is expected to-day for a renewal of the battle. Because of the very close relations between Weeks and Crane, and the fact that Weeks is regarded particularly as a Crane Congressman, the junior Senator has been blamed in part for the introduction of Weeks into this canvass.

It was said to-day that one thing would have to be understood that if Lodge went down this time Crane would have to follow two years from now.

Lomasney Men's Claims.

The critical stage has been reached in the speakership fight. At Lomasney headquarters to-day the surprising claim was made that almost all the legislators-elect affiliated with the so-called Donovan-Doyle element of the Boston Democracy will openly vote for Lomasney in the Democratic caucus to-night and that this practically pledges them to vote for his election as Speaker in the secret ballot taken in the House to-morrow.

The Lomasney men claim that the support of Representative Charles F. McCarthy of Marlboro, Lomasney's rival for the Democratic nomination, is rapidly disintegrating, owing to the fact that he has nothing concrete in the way of campaign committees, pledges and other adjuncts of a political fight.

They assert that Mr. McCarthy has enjoyed the newspaper publicity he has received, but that they know the pressure brought to bear on him by his strongest personal friends and supporters in Marlboro had led him to desist from further violent opposition to Lomasney. They made the assertion to-day that McCarthy's spirit toward Ward Eight Lomasney is friendly and that McCarthy feels he has been beaten fairly in a fair fight.

Speaker Walker is very confident of winning the speakership. So is Lomasney. Neither will give any figures. The claim from the Walker camp to-day is: "We will win if the Republicans do their duty."

Each side admits the possibility of the other side winning.

President Walter S. Rosebrook of the Republican Progressive League has denied that the league has indorsed Senator Lodge or any one else for Senator.

Foss's Rebuke to Whitney.

Governor-elect Foss has made a prompt reply to the letter of Henry M. Whitney indorsing Senator Lodge for re-election. Mr. Foss says:

"My good friend, Henry M. Whitney, does not seem to realise that the next Senator from this State sends to Washington must represent the people—and not State street.

"Mr. Whitney, in advocating the election of Senator Lodge, speaks as the representative, not if the people, but of privilege.

"So strong has the power of the privileged financial interests become in this State and city that they are able to defeat even Mr. Whitney's second choice from the political principles which he has so ably advocated for so many years.

"I can make no elaborated comment on that fact, for I accept Mr. Whitney as a friend. But I deplore the power to which financial coercion has attained.

Calls on People.

"I have always known and have always stated where Senator Lodge's backing came from. And now I call upon the people to witness it for themselves.

"I am not surprised that the Republican members of the committee of one hundred on reciprocal trade relations with Canada have indorsed Senator Lodge's brand of reciprocity; for I discovered some years ago that the reciprocity which they advocated was only a pretence. They were always willing to sell out on some pretext or other.

"It was this same committee that was sneeringly turned down by Senator Lodge when they presented a list of 60,000 citizens who asked for the insertion of a reciprocity plank in the Republican platform. Senator Lodge contemptuously alluded to them as 'Five Centers.'

"He not only ignored their petition but, in spite of his reciprocity professions he cut the reciprocity plank out of the platform.

Lodge is Beaten.

"Senator Lodge is still hoodwinking a few people with his sophistry. Some of us got our eyes open years ago, and dropped him. The people at the last election repudiated him, and State street and its representatives have not the power to reinstate him.

"Instead of this specious Lodge program of reciprocity, the people are now demanding the real thing. They demand that our duties shall be entirely removed from food products, whether Canadian duties are or not. For the masses of our people are suffering to-day for the necessaries of life.

"They also demand that we shall reduce our duties on manufactured products, which to-day are practically double those of Canada, to a level with theirs as an earnest of our good faith in seeking better trade relations.

"They are demanding free raw materials for our industries in order that Massachusetts and New England may have an equal chance with the rest of the country.

"The people know where Senator Lodge stands on these propositions.

"The reciprocity which Senator Lodge has been standing for all these years has resulted only in sending approximately $300,000,000 of American capital to Canada to build up branch industries, which compete with our own in foreign markets.

"It has also resulted in stifling the growth of Massachusetts and New England industry and kept us out of the lucrative business and commerce which belong to us by every right. It has kept the great Canadian railroads from our ports. It has ruined our coastwise shipping interests and made our wharf property of little value.

"It has depreciated the value of our real estate and restricted the growth of our enterprises and industry.

"The people have had enough of it. They said so at the last election.

"Senator Lodge is not going back to the Senate. He is defeated already."

Vahey Is Surprised.

James H. Vahey said:

"I can hardly credit Mr. Whitney's declaration for Senator Lodge.

"As I have understood Mr. Whitney's position, he has always contended that Senator Lodge was one of the foremost opponents of the development of the commercial industries of Massachusetts along the lines that he has advocated for years."

For the first time in his eighteen years service in the Senate, Henry Cabot Lodge will face some of the voters of Massachusetts in Symphony Hall to-night and at his "Apology" rally, will explain and attempt to justify his record while a member of the upper house of Congress.

Mr. Lodge will not linger long in town. He arrives this afternoon, speaks in the evening and at 1 a. m., takes a train back to Washington.

The senior Senator will step on the platform at Symphony Hall without a formal introduction and at his request there will be no presiding officer. Admission will be by ticket only, members of the Legislature being distinguished by green cards of admission.

As outlined, Mr. Lodge will talk about what he has done and where he stands on reciprocity, the tariff, the direct election of Senators, immigration, the initiative and other political economic questions on which he has been attacked.

PILES CURED QUICKLY AT HOME

Why Suffer Agony Any Longer When You can Get a Quick, Sure Cure For Your Piles by Simply Sending Your Name and Address?

Trial Package is Sent Absolutely Free, in Plain Wrapper to Everyone Who Writes.

Surgeons themselves consider a permanent cure of piles by a surgical operation as very doubtful, and resort to it only when the patient has become desperate from long continued pain and agony. But the operation itself is every bit as excruciating and necessary as the disease. Besides, it is humiliating and expensive, and rarely a success.

The wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure makes an operation unnecessary. It will cure yourself with perfect ease, in your own home, and for little expense.

Pyramid Pile Cure gives you instant relief. It immediately heals all sores and ulcers, reduces congestion and inflammation, and takes away all pain, itching and irritation. Just a little of the treatment is usually sufficient to give a permanent cure.

Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared in the form of suppositories and is applied directly to the parts without inconvenience, or interrupting your work in any way.

We are sending a trial treatment free of charge to every one who sends name and address. We do this to prove what we say about this wonderful remedy is true.

After you have tried the ample treatment, and are satisfied, you can get a full regular-sized treatment of Pyramid Pile Cure at your druggist's for 50 cents. If he hasn't it, send us the money and we will send you the treatment at once, by mail, in plain sealed package.

Send your name and address at once for a trial of this marvelous quick, sure cure. Address Pyramid Drug Co., 385 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich.

W. P. CONNERY, INAUGURATED AS MAYOR OF LYNN

WILLIAM P. CONNERY

W. T. A. FITZGERALD TO SPEAK ON DEEDS

Hon. William T. A. Fitzgerald, Register of Deeds for Suffolk County, will give an address on "The History and Development of Conveyancing" at Pilgrim Hall, No. 14 Beacon street, Wednesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, before members of the New England Historic Genealogical Society and their friends. Mr. Fitzgerald will illustrate his talk with ancient deeds and parchments.

IN BED AFTER INAUGURATION

Mayor William P. Connery, of Lynn, who was inaugurated, along with a new charter, was at City Hall again to-day after the most strenuous experience he ever had. He had never been inaugurated Mayor before and it was the first time he had ever been seen at City Hall in a high hat and double-breasted frock coat. In addition he had shaken about a thousand hands and found it some work.

When the inauguration was over, the Mayor said: "I was all in. I had to go home and go to bed to get rested."

"How do you like being Mayor?"

"Give me time to find out," he replied. "Being inaugurated is somewhat exhausting, but I am confident I will stand the strain of work all right. I shall have to look things over in the departments and then I may have suggestions to make. Chief Burke and I are going to-morrow the police department right away. He wants a new auto and I want to see and have the stable, which is back of the police station fixed. I shall have an eye on the fire department later and be ready to hear suggestions. I intend to be a good listener, and hope the suggestions will be as good as they seem."

When asked if he was going to make any recommendations to city officials, Mayor Connery said:

"I shall look around first. I shall get acquainted with all the departments and do some thinking after I have done considering. Then, perhaps, I shall do some talking. I'm not going to make a housecleaning of Public Safety under the new charter which has gone into effect. That will make it necessary to get familiar with the police and fire departments.

DR. LEEN LOSES MRS. PAGE VOTE

Mrs. Christiana Page, president of the Page Class Forum of the Dudley Street Baptist Church, declares she will not vote for Dr. Thomas F. Leen for school committeeman because he did not answer to her satisfaction a question she put to him at a meeting of the Page Class Forum, at which three candidates for school committee and six candidates for City Council were speakers.

The Page class meeting took place last night in the vestry of the Dudley Street Church. Members of the Wabash Avenue Municipal Club and of the Parents' and Teachers' Progressive Association were present. Mrs. Page of the Page Class and Mrs. Anna E. Stedman of the P. and T. P. A. were active in questioning Dr. Leen and Michael H. Corcoran, candidates for the school committee, and Mayor Fitzgerald and the candidates for City Council.

"Do you approve of the School Committee establishing schools in the heart of business districts and then instructing the boys to shun the city interests?" asked one of the house which is to financially profit by this investment?"

Dr. Leen said he had not gone deeply enough into the matter, and was not able at this time to speak as clearly as he might at a better time.

"Well, then, you don't get my vote," replied Mrs. Page, amid laughter and applause.

Michael H. Corcoran dwelt at length on the reasons why he should be elected. He was for providing more hot lunches for children and more open air schools.

Mrs. Julia Duff, the third School Committee candidate present, was given applause. She offered as five reasons for her election:

"I am a woman; I was a teacher four years; I am a mother and have children in the public schools; I am a graduate of the Boston Normal School, and last because I am free and there is no party or group of citizens to dictate to me."

City Council candidates speaking included Joseph A. Sheehan of Ward 9, Eugene F. O'Connor, J. Frank O'Hare, Frank A. Goodwin, Councilor Timothy J. Burke and Thomas F. Mansfield.

LODGE DEFEATED ALREADY, DECLARES GOVERNOR-ELECT

Senator Lodge is still hoodwinking a few people with his sophistry. Some of us got our eyes open years ago and dropped him. The people at the last election repudiated him, and State street and its representatives have not the power to reinstate him. Instead of this specious Lodge program of reciprocity the people are now demanding the real thing. The reciprocity which Senator Lodge has been standing for all these years has resulted only in sending approximately $300,000,000 of American capital to build up branch industries which compete with our own in foreign markets. He is defeated already.

From Foss's comment on Whitney and Lodge.

REBELS TAKE PUERTO CORTEZ

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 3.—The city of Puerto Cortez, on the Atlantic coast, is reported to have been captured by the insurrectionists headed by ex-President Bonilla, following a battle between the Estrabilla of the Honduran navy and the Silvestre Hornet.

Fighting is still said to be going on and but few of the lives far has been small, according to the reports

In this generous New Year's offer to its readers, the AMERICAN makes the conditions the easiest ever known in a contest of this kind. You simply have to get your friends to buy the Boston AMERICAN, Daily and Sunday — and to save the vote coupons which will be printed therein; the easiest thing in the world--You do not have to collect any money from your friends for subscriptions.

There is no age limit in the contest and it is open to every man, woman and child in New England.

Rules for the Contest

Collect no money! This contest is open to every man, woman and child in New England, except employes of the American and their families.

All contestants must be residents of New England, and must be regularly enrolled on the enrollment ballot which appears on this page.

The first enrollment ballot, and only the first one, received for each candidate before the day the first vote appears in the American on Sunday, January 15th, will count for 1000 votes.

Only vote coupons from the Daily or Sunday American will count in this contest. Subscriptions to the American, either daily or Sunday will not count. One vote coupon will appear in each issue of the American (daily and Sunday) during the life of this contest. Each vote coupon in the daily American will be good for one vote. Each vote coupon in the Sunday American will be good for ten votes.

The one who receives the largest number of votes, irrespective of districts, will be awarded the capital prize.

The ones who receive the largest number of votes in each district will be awarded the prizes as scheduled below.

Your friends do not need to enroll you. You can enroll yourself! Each vote coupon will be good for two weeks from the date printed in the American and valueless after two weeks.

The contest will begin Sunday, January 15th, 1911, and end at midnight, June 15th, 1911.

It is Easy to Win One of These Big Prizes

Clip out the enrollment ballot on this page now, fill it out and send it to the American Contest Editor, P. O. Box 227, to-day. This enrollment will count for and start you with 1000 votes. Get all your friends to buy the American, daily and Sunday, and save their votes for you. Your friends and neighbors will be glad to help you win one of the big prizes. If they are not at present readers of the American, ask each one of them to buy an American every day, and save the vote coupon for you. It will cost them only a penny a day to help you get any one of these valuable prizes. Their penny gets them Boston's Best Newspaper. Every friend, neighbor and acquaintance ought to be willing to help you to that extent.

Remember, everyone wants the American. Get your boys and girls to help you to collect the votes. They can ask their friends and parents; and readers, if you work in a factory or store, ask everybody there to buy the American and save the votes for you. Remember, the Sunday Coupon will count for 10 votes! Remind them every day. Do not lose a minute in entering this contest. Think of it! There are 1000 prizes, and every one is well worth your effort.

WARFIELD TRIUMPHS IN NEW PLAY

Belasco's Latest Offering a Daring Piece of Dramatic Work.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

Of course, you don't believe in spirits—ocular out-of-the-grave spirits. But your confidence in the absence of them took a severe jarring last evening at the Hollis when David Belasco pushed his favorite star into the grave and then pulled him out again to complete the most astonishing and convincing piece of stagecraft Mr. Belasco sent David Warfield crashing into the next world without a quiver, but he brought him safely back to correct a lot of unsettled conditions that were beyond the power of adjustment to old Peter Grimm's heirs. In a foreword on the programme Mr. Belasco confided that he "does not intend to define any theory as to the probability of the return of the main character of this play. For the many, he says he said that he could only in the minds of the characters grouped about him. For the few, his pronouncement will embody the theory of the survival of persistent personal energy."

Mr. Belasco, it will be seen, does not mean to be misunderstood, and you may take "The Return of Peter Grimm" as a true picture of what one may expect at the yawning grave, or you may attribute the spirit phenomenon to that last slice of bizarre pie. It matters not to Mr. Belasco.

DAVID WARFIELD

Belasco's Deft Touch Apparent.

At any rate "The Return of Peter Grimm" will put all of our best physical powers on edge. The deft touch of Belasco was manifest in every scene. Although he plunged boldly into the mysterious future he gave no offence—there was reticence in every detail. You may be sure that luxury, as only Belasco can make it, was enjoyed over and over again by the astonished spiritual in the production.

Warfield was in a new role, but a flesh and blood spirit that hadn't forgotten his good manners or natural life, for he clung his hat on the same old peg in the hat rack. His Peter Grimm was a Dutch mystic with cobwebs in his whiskers and with an obstinacy that blinded him to the feelings of his wife, he insisted on the arranged a marriage with an unworthy nephew. His pig-headedness actually was too much for his tired old heart and he died.

The second act brought him back in time to see his nephew and heir planning to sell the house that Grimm had scrimped to keep in the family. He was also set into other highly colored secrets about his nephew's past. This was disconcerting, even to a spirit. Warfield, with his inkily felt in a mysterious way, Grimm set about to undo his earthly mistakes and release his ward from her promise of marriage to the nephew. It was a dreadful task and Warfield was a fearful ghost. He be found a means of communication through a medium.

There was little doubt that Warfield's seeing and the unearthly nature of the play gripped the audience. The sincerity of the actor reached across the footlights, into every corner of the house. He made believe that serious business was being done and he made you believe it, so you through a second act that was both thrilling and haunting.

Stage Traditions Smashed.

The traditions of acting were smashed to atoms, as Warfield, through the lips of a boy, played all his scenes from the silent as the tomb from which he had just journeyed. There was no hysteria on the stage, but there was a tremendous lot of direction in the audience.

The play, as played by Percy Helton, made an agreeable impression. John Sainpolis was the villainous nephew to the life of his cigarette, and Joseph Brennan a bewhiskered and convincing as a believer in the return of departed friends. Marie Bates risked about as the talkative Mrs. Bathbonemary and Janet Dunbar gave grace and beauty to Kathrein, Grimm's ward.

In "The Return of Peter Grimm" Mr. Belasco asks a great deal of his audience, but he does it so engagingly that no resistance is made. The transformation of the boy, Willem, from the dull clod to an important piece of legerdemain that would have astonished Keilar.

"The Return of Peter Grimm" robs the grave of its sting—it shows happiness in death.

Tremont Theatre.

With a house packed with critical first nighters calling at the end of every act for the players, and in the third act insisting on bringing the star to the front, the first professional performance of "The Scarecrow" or the "Glass of Truth," a play in four acts by Percy Mackaye, was given last night at the Tremont. The play has been seen in Boston before, when by the Harvard Dramatic Club, at Brattle Hall, on December 7, 1908.

"The Scarecrow" is in four acts, and the scene is laid in Massachusetts during Colonial days. The hero is a Scarecrow, though endowed with life. His head is made of a pumpkin, his heart is of beet, his lungs a pair of bellows, his legs a pair of flails. To keep the flails limp the Scarecrow must forever puff a corncob pipe.

This creature is brought into being by a witch called Goody Hickby, married to Dickon, whom the author describes as "A Yankee impersonation of the Imp of Darkness."

Goody Hickby, the witch, who has been wronged by Justice Gilead Merton in years gone by, seeks revenge for her wrongs, and could upon Dickon to help her, the plot is made to put life into a scare-crow, and has Lord Ravensbane, present him at the house of the Justice, and by the subtle machinations of Dickon lay siege to the heart of Justice Merton's daughter, who is already betrothed.

Dickon, the Yankee impersonation of the Imp of Darkness, was portrayed by Edmund Breese, and the splendid acting all through the performance earned him the deserved applause of the big audience. Goody Hickby, the witch (Miss Alice Fleming), carried the first act of the play by herself. Indeed, she is not seen after the first act, except for a minute in the last. Her acting in the first brought her well-merited applause.

Frank Reicher, who was the Scarecrow, deserves praise for the able manner in which he sustained his part in that trying character. His portrayal of Lord Ravensbane was splendid. At one time during the play Lord Ravensbane sings a song, and in it Mr. Reicher displays a baritone voice that might not be despised by some of our light opera performers.

Rachel Merton, daughter of the justice, was well given by Miss Beatrice Irwin, as was her suitor, Richard Talbot, by Earle Browne. Brigadier Slayes played Justice Merton, and Mrs. Felix Morris took the role of his sister, Mistress Merton. She too, and both did excellently. The cast, as a whole, is excellent, and the play must entertaining.

Park Theatre.

"Arsene Lupin," the great French society thief, invaded Boston for the first time last night when he made the appearance at the Park Theatre in a play of the same name. The house was crowded.

The play is well constructed and not a dull moment ensues throughout its performance. There are several exciting climaxes but the third act holds one spellbound. Here the crafty Lupin and the keen French detective Ganimard fight a battle of wits. Once the detective all but succeeds in catching the notorious thief, but he forestalls all attempts.

The first act opens in the chateau of M. Gourgy-Martin in the suburbs of Paris. The family is visited by thieves under the guise of purchasers of an automobile. Thieving by one of the men is detected by the fine de Charmeuse, who is the fiancee of the son-in-law of M. Gourgy. The thief is pleased by the Duke, who believes that he acted on the spur of the moment.

The second act opens with a telegram stating that Arsene Lupin will visit his Paris house the following day and send several police dogs and a famous diamond tiara. The family arrives at the house to find everything in a chaos. Chairs have been overturned, windows broken and the name of Arsene Lupin inscribed in all of the walls. The police arrive, as does Ganimard, the detective.

The rest of the play centres around Lupin and Ganimard. The former after a thrilling escape is cornered in his own apartments and captured. Before he can be turned over to the police, however, the tables are turned, when Georges Andre, Duprez, as she said she had been employed by Lupin to do the part and published traveling through the towns in Maine. Arsene Lupin plays the role of Georges Andre, saying that from the woman's statement he is evidently a murderer. Lupin is arrested and the complaint against Farrell would not be maintained.

"Return of Peter Grimm" Tells Story of Return from Grave.

everybody with real astonishment. There was also a new program in the theatre.

Gaiety Theatre.

The Rehman show at the Gaiety Theatre yesterday depended upon a two-act musical frolic called "An False Alarm" for its success. The score of lively young women who made up the singing portion of the entertainment found themselves popular.

Hub Theatre.

The new feature act at the Hub Theatre yesterday was Steele's Merrymakers, a group of vaudevillians of pronounced musical tendencies. Several other engaging features completed the bill.

Scenic Temple.

The New Year was celebrated at the Scenic Temple yesterday by an appropriate program of vaudeville, motion and a list of motion pictures. Lenda Howe's orchestra was also heard.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

"The Diving Girl" made the most of her time at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday and filled a pleasing number on the program. There were other features.

Waldron's Casino.

It was an old-fashioned burlesque show, with up-to-date features, that made the evening so merry at Waldron's Casino Theatre yesterday. "The Golden Crook" company proved that it had many entertaining qualities, which, included a score of spirited young women.

Plays That Remain.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" continues on its jolly musical way at the Castle Square Theatre, where John Craig and his players are finding splendid success.

Madame X." is finding favor in astonishing measure on its flood of tears at the Majestic and Miss Dorothy Donnelly is finding favor, too, in the difficult role.

Bessie McCoy is making "The Echo" the dancing play of the season at the Colonial, with John Hazzard helping out with rich comedy.

Genee and "The Bachelor Belles" began their final week at the Boston Theatre last evening.

Another week of "The Rosary" was begun at the Globe Theatre yesterday. It is a play with strong churchly inclinations.

Next Week's Plays.

Miss Sarah Bernhardt will begin her engagement at the Boston Theatre next Monday night, opening with "L'Aiglon."

"Follies of 1910" will come to the Tremont next Monday for a run.

Mabelle Cahill in "Lady Forgat" will be the attraction at the Shubert next week.

At the Old Howard "Roads" will move into the Grand Opera House next Monday.

COURT HALTS CASE OF FORTUNE TELLER

Mesmerism, hypnotism and drugs entered into a prior marriage of Mrs. Patrick J. Farrell, according to her testimony before Judge Sprague in the Suffolk probate court on the complaint against her husband for non-support. Mrs. Farrell, or Mrs. Clara E. Dupree, as she said she had been known while living as a fortune teller and publicist traveling through the towns in Maine, told Attorney Abram Lipsky in her defense, saying that from the woman's statement he is evidently a murderer. Lupin is arrested and the complaint against Farrell would not be maintained.

ONE IN NINE GETS AID OF CHARITY

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. Statistics compiled by a committee show that one out of every nine persons in the city is now receiving the aid of charity; that the State, the city and charitable institutions collectively spend almost $100,000 a day in the succor of the needy; that there are daily 340,000 persons in the city living in the housing of the poor in dark rooms, in tenements, causes 50,000 new cases of tuberculosis a year and 10,000 deaths, and that all this is attributable to the high rents charged by the congestion of population and the high cost of living.

WANTED MUSICIAN FOR GIFT; GOT HIM

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—Miss Florence Lolita Waldman of this city has wooed and won George Rodovey, a Russian cellist. Before Christmas Rodovey asked her what present she would like to receive. "Why," answered Miss Waldman, "there is only one thing on earth I want, and that is you." "Very well," answered the musician, "when will it be that I want to take your name?" The wedding will take place January 10.

SOCIALIST WHO JEERS AT SAVIOUR MOBBED

Frank Urbansky, a Socialist, was mobbed by his hearers in Scollay square last night, when in the course of his denunciation he urged the crowd to "Throw Jesus Christ into the muck heap and let some sunlight into Christianity." Urbansky then threw a few eggs into the crowd, where he was stamped on, kicked and struck with fists until he was a mass of mud, tatters and bruises. The police saved him from further violence.

STATE LIBRARY HAS ADEQUATE QUARTERS

According to the annual report of State Librarian Belden to the trustees of the State Library, 1,387 books, 1,000 pamphlets and 19 maps have been added during the year ending November 30, 1910. The total for the present biennium are adequate and that the 1910 appropriation, $25,000.10, will be sufficient annually for years to come.

LADIES' NIGHT AT DEDHAM K. OF P.

Thursday night Onward lodge of the Knights of Pythias of Dedham will observe ladies' night. Greenleaf Hall, Dedham. A fine public installation will be held by Mayflower Temple, Pythian Sisters, which will follow the drill. The committee in charge consists of George W. Astley, H. F. Kling, R. H. Wragg, R. M. Davis and L. W. Sleeper.

MARGARET ANGLIN IS WELL AGAIN

NEW BRITAIN, Ct., Jan. 3.—Margaret Anglin the actress, who has been seriously ill here, has practically recovered from a severe illness, made her appearances here in "Green Stockings," a comedy by A. E. W. Mason and George Fleming, which was given its premiere this evening. All signs of her illness, and was cordially received.

MAINE HAS $135,722 CASH; $548,922 DEBT

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 3.—State Treasurer Gilmore says that the amount of the State's unpaid warrants is $384,644, that there are temporary loans outstanding of $300,000 and that there is a cash balance in the treasury of $135,722, making a deficit of $548,922.

POET'S WIDOW GREETS AUTHORS

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

A diversity of functions form an interesting calendar for society this week, among them being Mrs. Elsie D. Jordan's hospitality for the Thursday Morning Musicale Club at her residence on Beacon street and the entertaining by Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich of the Boston Authors Club at her home, No. 59 Mt. Vernon street, Friday afternoon. The Rt. Rev. Charles Davis Williams, D. D., will be the guest of honor.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Mildred Edith Newcomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Newcomb, and Ralph Ward Holland. Mr. Newcomb, that year, '10. Mr. Boland is the eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Boland. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce B. Ware gave a supper party in honor of their daughter, Miss Miriam Lavinia Ware to Herbert van Dightman Cooke and Mr. Abbott.

Assisting Mrs. MacVeagh, wife of the Secretary of State, at her New York reception were Mrs. Wirt Dexter of Commonwealth avenue, Mrs. C. A. Munn, whose daughter, Miss Carrie Munn is soon to be married, Boland, Boarman of this city, and Mrs. Preston Gibson, who spends much of each Summer with her grandmother, Mrs. McMillan, at Englewood, Manchester.

Mrs. George von L. Meyer, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, will give her first New Year's reception at her home on Scott Circle in Washington.

The Misses Shepley of this city, who are the guests of Secretary and Mrs. Nagel in Washington, assisted Mrs. Nagel at her New Year's reception.

Miss Helen Taft will be one of the most fashionable brides of the season, and Washington's chase Club next Saturday, when Miss Taft and Miss Alice Moore will head the receiving line.

A recent addition to Boston society is Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer Sawyer, who has taken apartments in this city for the Winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer have had their first week-end party at their home, Lieutenant George S. Patton, U. S. A., of Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Mrs. Patton.

January 11 is the date selected for the marriage of Miss Jane Mason Stockton, daughter of Howard Stockton, and Mrs. Stockton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkman Shaw. The ceremony will be performed at St. Paul's.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGill (Dorothy Lawton) have returned from their honeymoon, spent at Somerville, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sattlestull will give a luncheon next Saturday at their home in Readville for Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Sibley, who were married last December 10. Mrs. Neal Rathbul, who is Mr. Sattlestull's sister, will give a reception for them in the afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Stevens will be the guest of honor at the dinner which Mrs. E. Preble Motley, jr., will give at the Hotel Puritan this Club. Later, Mrs. Hyrce J. Allen will give a dinner for Miss Sears.

Miss Esther Sloane of the Hotel Puritan is the guest in Washington of Mr. and Mrs. John D. McLean.

Additional engagement announcements received are those of Miss Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer F. Sherman, to W. Sanford Bigelow, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Helen Welker, daughter of Mrs. Chester Weber of Brookline, to Henry Alker Edward Harvard, '05, also of Brookline.

URGE NEW TUNNEL FOR PEDESTRIANS

Petitions to the Massachusetts Legislature, urging that action be taken this year authorizing or requiring the city of Boston to build a tunnel under the harbor for the use of teams, traffic and pedestrians, are being circulated throughout the city. The advantages of tunneling rather than to run ferries would be more than pay the interest on the total cost of the tunnel, sinking. Former Alderman Thomas J. Giblin of East Boston urges that the pedestrians a moving sidewalk be put in.

FREIGHT ASSOCIATION MAKES CUT IN RATES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—In accordance with the recent Reno-Phoenix rate decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission the Transcontinental Freight Association today announced a reduction in passenger tariff covering class and commodity rates from New York, Boston, Buffalo, Portland, Nevada, Utah and California. A large number of rate reductions are made.

TOWN OF GRANVILLE FIGHTS $500,000 FIRE

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 3.—A large portion of the business section of Granville, Washington county, was destroyed by fire today, with a loss of $500,000. The fire broke out late yesterday, and today was still raging, although the residential section was not in danger. The fire jumped from house to house further energizing same, and the firemen were handicapped by the fact that the water pipes were out of condition.

COUNTESS TO WED IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Countess Luise Alexandra von Bernstroff, daughter of the ambassador from Germany and Countess von Bernstroff, whose engagement to Count Edmund Pourtales, of the German embassy was recently announced, will be married to-day. The latter part of March has been selected for the wedding, but the date has not yet been set. Count Pourtales will be transferred about that time, probably to the foreign office in Berlin.

HOSPITAL HONEYMOON FOR BRIDEGROOM

On the eve of his entering the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital for treatment after a long illness, James Percy Roberts, former social secretary of the Boston Y. M. C. A., was married to Miss Myrtle A. Young, of Dedham, at Newton. The marriage was originally planned for the month of June, but owing to the latter illness it was decided to have the ceremony performed at once before he enters the hospital.

TEAMSTERS WEAR S. P. C. A. BADGE

Boston team owners and team drivers are to wear the badge of and be members of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The object is to secure a greater co-operation among the horse drivers and horse owners, and to remove the friction which has existed in past years between the society officials and teamsters.

It isn't what you pay for advertising; it's what advertising pays you. Advertising that pays is the only cheap advertising; advertising that doesn't pay is dear at any price. Advertising in the AMERICAN pays best, therefore it is the cheapest.

WIVES TELLS WIVES ART OF TEARS

Wives, weep with your husbands if you want something done, is the advice of Miss Alice L. Higgins, general secretary of the Associated Charities of Boston. And if your husband comes home and sits down on one side of the stove and cries because he can't get any work to do, Miss Higgins further advises just you down up your chair and sit down on the other side and weep with him.

"If you don't do this," says Miss Higgins, "but go out and find work for yourself, your husband will be apt to find it more and more difficult to find work."

The above and some other admonitions to housewives in distress were given the Woman's Baptist Social Union at a meeting in the rooms "Organizing Relief in Needy Families."

The first question Miss Higgins said, is "Before you can help anyone you must know, not what they are in distress and disheartened, but what they were at their best, in order that you may get them back to that point and to higher levels than they have before touched.

The securing of this knowledge is sometimes called investigation. What you need in a large city is a substitute for the personal knowledge of the people in a small town, and the information needs not more investigation than the doctor who has examined charity, but there must be one who is specially appointed.

In dealing with the needy the first thing we have to combat is fatalism. The people always have gone so and there for it is all right to keep on doing so. Then we have incident to the distressing thing, and think we are alleviating the distress, but because the cause is not in the same thing as giving a drug to destroy the pain without finding out the cause of the pain.

Then we have the idea that the poor we will always have with us, but we have not thought that it was not necessarily the same poor, but that the poor of to-day may be helped and taught so that he may be the friend and helper of the poor of to-morrow.

Then came in the idea of prevention, and then we have the modern policy of relieving distress and the still more generous policy of preventing distress, but the much more splendid one of promoting vital welfare.

Family Unit of Society.

"Organized charity begins with the idea that the family is the unit of society. Charity altogether too long has considered the woman and the child and has forgotten that there is a husband or father who ought to be supporting them.

"There is a very common doctrine that a person who is good for anything will make himself felt wherever his circumstances. This is all very well, if opportunities and chances to show things, but it is another to say that it is not absolutely no chances at all. That is why the need of the individual must study the condition of the community.

"There now is a time when so much interesting legislation was before the Massachusetts Legislature that there is no time for it. For instance, child labor. I wonder how many of us have ever been guilty of getting a boy into the messenger service where he would be obliged to work (if working late at night) I have. Most legitimate business ends at 6 o'clock, and then consider what the boy is in for for the rest of the night.

"I am glad they did not pass the bill regulating the hours last year, because there was not strong enough for the bill this year prohibits the employment of boys under 16 years old after they have been twenty-one years old. I do not think the passage of such a bill is right. The bill Helen Weber, daughter of Mrs. Chester Weber of Brookline, to Henry Alker Edward Harvard, '05, also of Brookline.

POTHIER AGAIN INAUGURATED

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 3.—Strong indorsement of election of United States Senators by the General Assembly instead of by popular vote, and recommendations for the creation of a commission to study laws regulating the indebtedness of cities, for a State board of commissioners of public utilities for regulation of purification of Rhode Island shellfish, especially in relation to preservation of the oyster industry, and for effort to secure Congressional appropriation for a waterway across south end Rhode Island were features of the inaugural message of Governor Aram J. Pothier (Republican), who was inaugurated for his second successive term this noon.

The governor's indorsement of indirect election of a United States Senator was especially pertinent because the General Assembly did elect by a vote of indirect to preservation of the oyster industry, and for effort to secure Congressional appropriation for a waterway across south end Rhode Island were features of the inaugural message of governor Aram J. Pothier (Republican), who was inaugurated for his second successive term this noon.

The governor's indorsement of indirect election of a United States Senator was especially pertinent because the General Assembly did elect by a vote of indirect to Senator Aldrich. The Senatorial campaign of 1910 was the big issue in State politics, however to the inaugural today.

Another feature of today's ceremonies was the increased size of the Lower House of General Assembly, which now contains 100 members instead of the 72 who were elected before the recent redistricting.

On Senatorial Elections.

On the question of electing a United States Senator the governor's message said in part:

"I believe every member of this body and every thinking citizen of the State finds a cause for regret in the fact that the choice of the one who shall fill the highest position in the gift of the people in the calm atmosphere of legislative deliberation, rather than as a token whose prosperity and contentment depend upon the success of political intrigue. I am confident that our national politics be not wholly nor subjected to the influences of a passing impulse, which would not affect the deliberations of a legislative body.

On "Financial Reform" the Governor said:

I recommend the immediate passage of an act creating the office of State tax commissioner, prescribing his powers and duties, and also an act providing either for a tax on inheritances at a rate not exceeding 40 cents on each $100 of the value thereof, or for some other substitute capable of adequate enforcement, for the present system.

On Public Utilities.

On municipal indebtedness the governor recommended: "That the commissioner of industrial statistics be given authority, in conjunction with the State Board of Accountancy and Business Organization, to be created, to formulate a uniform system of municipal accounts, to the end that the same may be put into effect by the several cities and towns and city treasurers."

"I believe it would be for the interest of the public if there should be established a board of commissioners of public utilities to act as boards of arbitration in the adjustment of all differences between such corporations and their employes.

On workmen's compensation:

I recommend that the Committee on Labor Legislation confer with the Rhode Island Board of Commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation, for the purpose of investigating the advisability of proposing a workmen's compensation act."

NEITHER WIFE HOLDS EITHER AT WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Jan. 3.—Alfred Either is at liberty to-day after being freed of a bigamy charge. Mrs. Sadie Either of Holden told Judge Utley Either married her two years ago.

"I didn't either," said Either. "It was no legal ceremony at that time. But we were married Christmas Day last."

Mrs. Maria Either of Millbury, who had also claimed Either as her missing husband, took a good look at him and said:

"He isn't my husband, either. He may be Either, but he isn't my Either."

"No," said Either. "I'm not your Either, neither."

"Either," said the Holden woman, "you're a bigamist, either way."

"Either," said Either, "I guess I was Either."

NEW BONDS GIVEN FOR NORMAN PLASS

New securities were furnished today for Rev. Norman Plass, manager of the estate of Charles H. Brooks, manager, and John L. Traphagen, treasurer, of the Redeemable Investment Company, who were arrested last week on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. The bonds for Plass were increased yesterday from $3,000 to $5,000, and these amounts were furnished by the Fidelity Trust Co. at No. 10 Tremont road. Wellesley, went bail for Plass to the extent of $5,000 and Dr. Howard Ryan of Mary E. Mary, a surgeon at No. 180 Commonwealth avenue, furnished the bonds for both Brooks and Traphagen. Traphagen's former bondsman was Bernard (Peck) Bennett.

HENRY O. HAVEMEYER LEFT $17,107,165

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Headley M. Greene, transfer tax appraiser, has filed a report with Surrogate Cohalan, which shows that Henry O. Havemeyer left an estate valued at $17,107,165. By his will Mr. Havemeyer left all he had to his wife and three children. The cash in banks in this city amounted to $1,000,000 and $150,000 when he died he had loans and other items which brought the total to $2,500,000. He owned bank stocks worth $1,000,000, but stock stock subscriptions, trades and other industrial shares made up a large part of his estate.

TEN HURT BY TRAIN CRASH IN ILLINOIS

CLINTON, Ill., Jan. 3.—Ten passengers on the Illinois Central's "Diamond Special" bound from St. Louis to Chicago, were injured in a rear end collision here when the passenger train collided with a freight. One of the cars of the freight train was partly wrecked. The injured were all in this Pullman car.

Cures Colds and Strengthens System Without Use of Alcohol or Dangerous Drugs

Half a century ago, Rev. John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., through overwork and exposure, became seriously run down. Colds and stubborn coughs and lung trouble threatened his life. An eminent specialist gave Father John a prescription to cure the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body. The clergyman began to improve at once, the cough disappeared and the lungs healed. It corrected his digestion, made new tissue, and Father John was soon restored to his former health and strength.

Father John recommended the medicine to his parishioners and friends, and because of its merits it became in the family remedy in thousands of homes, and became known as "Father John's Medicine," having been so named by the people, and was advertised, all with approval of Father John.

It will cure all throat and lung troubles, prevent Consumption, and make flesh and strength if taken faithfully. It is not a patent medicine, and does not contain alcohol or poisonous drugs.

As a guarantee that the story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000.00 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise.

SHIP TO BOSTON WRECK ON ROCKS

The steam collier Kennebec, carrying coal from Newport News to Boston, is wrecked on the rocks in Vineyard Sound off Pasque Island, having gone aground in the heavy fog.

Today the crew of eighteen men were taken from the ship by the United States revenue cutter Acushnet, as soon as the fog lifted. Captain Brooks refused to leave the collier which was filled with water and is rapidly settling, according to messages from the island.

The collier is owned by the Chesebrough Steamship Company of No. 141 Milk street. It will probably be a total loss, though the Boston Towboat Company has dispatched its wrecking tug Underwriter, to the scene from Hyannis. The Underwriter is the only wrecking superintendent on board. It is thought that the vessel or a part of its cargo may be saved.

Word of the grounding was telephoned by some of the watchers ashore in Woods Hole from the cutter Acushnet and the cutterbuilt life savers were notified. Word was also dispatched to Boston, but the cutter Gresham was unable to leave the dock on account of repairs to her boilers.

When the Acushnet went out to the rescue of the Kennebec she found that the crew had abandoned the collier in boats and were standing by the wreck. The Acushnet will remain by the wreck until the fog lifts.

SURPRISES PROMISED THE RUSTLER FANS

By SID WHIPPLE.

L. C. Page is back in Boston again, and to-day will see the arrival of William Theodore Russell. Both of these owners were in New York a greater part of last week, and believe that at last they have accomplished something toward strengthening the Rustlers.

At the same time, not a deal has gone through as yet, and every proposition made by the magnates over in New York, is still in the air. This does not mean, however, that there are not several trades pending. In fact it is known that on one or two deals it remains only for Mr. Russell to affix his signature to certain papers, and several changes that may startle Boston fans will be effected.

There are at least two players whom Mr. Russell and Mr. Page were dead anxious to secure. It was for those players that they made the little trip to New York. Now they return confident that their plans have not miscarried.

What would be more reasonable than to suppose that these two men—whoever they are—have been secured. At any rate, Mr. Page seems remarkably cheerful these days, and if he is disappointed in the big city, at least hears no sign.

With Mr. Russell's arrival in town again, more conferences and meetings will be in order in the Paddock building headquarters, and the owners give out positive assurance that there will "be something to announce" before the end of the week.

Saturday morning the stockholders of the club will hold a meeting to ratify the work done by the directors in the last few weeks, and incidentally to talk over matters of the financial welfare of the club.

It now appears that neither Beck or Shean will be allowed to go for any such price as winter money. Both these players are worth far more than that, and if they are the club it will be in exchange by which the Rustlers will benefit.

"If I didn't have any more offered me than the waiver price for them," said Mr. Page last night, "we would keep them on the staff. If anything happens it will be a trade, and we won't let them go for nothing. They are worth more to the club."

STRENUOUS TRIP IS PLANNED FOR PIRATES

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 3.—The Spring training plans of the Pittsburg Baseball Club call for a strenuous trip. The club will report at West Baden, Ind., on March 7, and the spring schedule calls for eight practice games in Little Rock, Memphis, Chattanooga, Columbus and Dayton, O.

The team will remain at West Baden until March 17, when it will leave for Hot Springs, Ark. For seventeen days the team will be at its training quarters at Whitting ton Park. On April 4, Pittsburg will play its annual game with the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. There will be one game at Memphis on April 5, and beginning April 6 a series of three games will be played at Chattanooga. On the ninth and tenth there will be games at Columbus. The Spring exhibition series will close at Dayton, April 12, the day preceding the opening of the National League season.

PADDY LAVIN SHADES CROUSE IN FAST BOUT

AKRON, O., Jan. 3.—Paddy Lavin of Buffalo had a shade the better of Hugh Crouse of Pittsburg in their twelve-round bout here. Both men displayed considerable cleverness and a good draw would be the equitable decision. For four rounds the going was even. In the fifth Crouse rushed Lavin and was almost but almost floored he left his chair. Crouse worked in a fairly aggressive and for most part in a lively fashion. In the last three rounds Lavin stood off Crouse's furious onslaughts well, causing the young Pittsburger to constantly miss.

MIKE TWIN-YOUNG LOUGHREY IN DRAW

BUFFALO, Jan. 3.—Mike "Twin" Sullivan of Boston and Young Loughrey of Philadelphia boxed a slow ten-round bout under the auspices of the International A. C. here. No decision was given, but the consensus of opinion was that honors were about even.

During the last round, when the men were in a clinch in the corner, a fight started. Sullivan looked to have fifteen pounds on his opponent, who tired after the end, but Mike was not there with the necessary punch.

PURDUE SIGNS UP WITH THE RUSTLERS

The contract of Hub Perdue, pitcher, has been received at the Boston National's headquarters. Perdue comes from the Nashville club of the Southern League. Brooklyn drafted him, and then asked waivers upon him. Boston refused to waive, and, therefore, gets him at the waiver price, $1,500.

BASEBALL NEWS NOTES

Joe Keller is hot on Jimmy Mallee's coattails. He wants Red" killing a little light on hitting, and may be dropped if the new outfielder shows improvement in sticking on the training trip of the Senators. Both Dugale and Mallee are to be sold by the Nationals, wishes to return to the man agement of Joe Cantillon, who fired them and dropped from the big show.

"Uncle" Ben Sibley, owner of the world's champion Athletics, is going to celebrate with a genuine banquet after all. The affair will be observed in Chicago after the schedule meeting of the Johnson boots in February. Ben is a guest of the "Uncle" Ben. He'll have to feed only the American Leaguers. In all probability the National League magnate will be transacting business of their own in New York at that time.

Manager Harry Wolverton of Oakland declares that Cleveland has picked up in Vean Gregg one of the most promising pitchers developed in the minors in a long time. He thinks Gregg is as good to-day as ever "Babe" Waddell proved in his prime, and that Gregg will make his mark in major leagues as did Walter Johnson and Russell Ford.

Whether or not Charles W. Murphy has got to succeed in the Phillies, it is a fact that Murphy has to interested with Grayson in the Louisville baseball Association club. The owner of the club used Louisville as a farm last year. It is willing to trade Chief Bender, Wheat and Scoffield for four of the other big leagues with him.

Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court of the United States is said to be one of the most ardent fans of the national game. White just as well as major leagues as did Walter Johnson and Russell Ford.

Whether or not Charles W. Murphy has got to succeed in the Phillies, it is a fact that Murphy has to interested with Grayson in the Louisville baseball Association club. The owner of the club used Louisville as a farm last year. It is willing to trade Chief Bender, Wheat and Scoffield for four of the other big leagues with him.

Fred Jacklitsch, the heavyweight backstop of the Phillies, has been sold to the Rochester club of the Eastern League. Connie Mack's office reports that Jacklitsch Dunnough will be the Quakers' receiving battery. Jacklitsch will report to Rochester and Dell Wilson will divide the major part of the catching burden.

Scout Irwin of the Yankees expects great things from Calvin Williams, a pitcher from the Virginia League. Irwin declares that with a little seasoning Williams will be the equal of either Ed Reulbach or Walter Blair.

"Red" Ames has taken to Winter golf as a means of keeping in light training. Ames has written Mcgraw that he has spent a good Fall and Winter on the links and will be in better before to join the band wore at Marlin.

St. Louis scribes, in exonerating Roger Bresnahan's policy of letting go of Catcher Ed Phelps, point to the fact that more bases were stolen on the big Cardinal backstop last year than on any other major league catcher.

Washington is trying to build up a stirling outfield. Clyde Engle of Boston would fill in, and President Noyes is anxious to secure Delos Drake, now with the Tigers.

Bresnahan has signed a Chippewa pitcher named Mitchell, who hails from the same tribe as Bender. The Chippewas are turning them out every day.

Matty Baldwin and Pal Moore will meet in the main bout at the Armory A. A., Tuesday, January 17. The boys will weigh in at 133 pounds at 3 o'clock.

There's going to be some red hot sport at the Armory Club to-night with Sandy Ferguson and Porky Flynn clashing in the main bout. Sandy looks upon his younger opponent as an easy mark, but he is very apt to get a surprise party. Jim Barry bought the same thing only to awaken to the fact that Flynn is a fast forging to the front as one of the best heavyweights ever produced in New England.

If Sandy wins he will get a chance later on Sam Langford, if he loses he will be all turn to the ice wagon. The match gives every promise of being one of the best seen hereabouts for some time.

At the ringside will be Tom O'Kelly, the white man's hope, who will challenge the winner. O'Kelly bested Jeff Madden at New Bedford last night and if he does he could get a draw in the heavyweight division.

Joe Jeanette will be on hand to-night to be introduced to the Armory Club members. He is said to be in fine shape for his contest with Sam Langford next Tuesday.

SWISS WRESTLER HURT, MIGHTY POLE WINNER

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, defeated John Lenun, the Swiss, in two straight falls, the first in one minute and thirty seconds and the second by default. In the first Lenun lifted the Pole clear of the floor, but lost his balance and fell backward with his lusty opponent on top of him. He was stunned, and apparently injured about the chest.

When they came together for the second bout, Zbyszko complained that Lenun offered no resistance and appeared to be badly hurt. The referee declared Zbyszko the winner.

SULLIVAN EAGER TO FACE FRANK KLAUS

In a letter to a well-known local sporting man, Tommy Sullivan, the Lawrence lightweight, states that he is ready to fight Hugo Kelly, Jimmy Gardner or Frank Klauss for the middleweight championship of the world. Sullivan, if he cannot get a match with one of the three named, will go to England and try to secure a battle with his namesake, Jim Sullivan, who recently defeated Tom Thomas. It is understood that a Boston sporting man is now negotiating with Hugh McIntosh for Tommy's appearance on the other side.

ANDREWS TOO CLASSY FOR WILLIE DRISCOLL

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 3.—Willie Driscoll could do nothing in his battle with Freddie Andrews, and in eight of the ten rounds it was all Andrews's alottie. In the first three rounds Andrews pounded Driscoll's head back and forth with straight jabs and heavy swings, and Willie could land only a few of his blows, which soon became entirely wild and ineffective. In the fourth Driscoll was in better form, but his opponent had the best of all the other rounds.

SID AXWORTHY TURNED PACER

Sid Axworthy, 2.12¼, Harry Wood's former chestnut whirlwind, who once trotted the Charles River Speedway a half mile in 59¾ seconds, and split both the fifth as the speedway trotting king of Boston, has been converted to the pace and gives promise of going equally fast as a pacer. His trainer is shortening him with five-ounce shoes forward and eighteen ounces behind. The weight of his hind shoes will be gradually reduced as he becomes accustomed to the new way of going. Sid Axworthy is by Axworthy, 2.15¼, the sire of Hamburg Belle, 2.01¼, and his dam was Gold Leaf, 2.11¼, by Silver, the grandsire of Lou Dillon, 2.01. Sid is still a top-notcher upon the New York speedway.

DONAHOE-DESHLER BATTLE TOMORROW

It is a well-known fact, that boxing bouts between evenly matched boys in the lightweight division furnish the best contests; as they have cleverness, speed, and hitting ability. The match tomorrow night at Fall River, between Young Donahoe and Dave Deshler brings together two boys who have all the good qualities mentioned besides having years of experience. It should result in a fast contest.

A six-round bout between Buy Wood of Fall River and Joe Fagan of Boston, and an eight round bout between Johnny Cahill of Boston and Kid Wilhelte of Fall River, all in the lightweight class, makes what looks like the boss card ever arranged in that city.

MEMPHIS PUTS BAN ON BOXING MATCHES

MEMPHIS, Jan. 3.—For the first time in more than a year and since the prize fighting laws were passed legalizing eight-round bouts in Tennessee, all efforts to pull off the usual weekly matches were abandoned today. Club officials say the games will be revived with a match between Johnnie Coulon and Johnny Daly, Packey Hannigan or Kid Murphy, January 11.

Local promoters say the heavyweights, Barry and Ross, by stalling, ruined the game temporarily.

SHUGRUE EASY MARK FOR SAMMY KELLAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Sammy Kellar, the young English bantam-weight boxer, began the New Year auspiciously by fairly smothering young Joe Shugrue in a ten round bout at the Olympic Club. In the words of a ringside fan, Shugrue "never was in it." Kellar had the better of his opponent in eight of the ten rounds, and the best Shugrue could do was to even up the other two rounds, the fourth and the eighth.

GRAYS' MANAGER NOT YET CHOSEN

President Timothy D. Crowley of the Providence Grays declared to the AMERICAN at his offices in this city to-day that no manager has as yet been selected for the team the coming season. "We have reached no conclusion in the matter," said Mr. Crowley, and probably shall not do so for another fortnight. At present we are waiting to hear from Hugh Duffy, one of the owners of the club, as to how he feels in the choice of a new leader of the team for the coming season."

BREAKS SHOULDER IN BIG WRESTLING BOUT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 3.—A wrestling match here between Charles Cutler of Chicago and Ernest Fenby of Aimo, Mich., came to an abrupt ending after five minutes of wrestling, when Fenby dislocated his shoulder. The referee ordered the bout stopped.

CON O'KELLEY IS OUTCLASSED

NEW BEDFORD, Jan. 3.—Con O'Kelley, the Irish giant, touted as real "white man's hope" was outclassed by Jeff Madden of Boston in a twelve-round bout here. Over 3,000 fight fans saw the bout.

Madden had the best of it all the way. Referee Downey called the bout a draw, however, as both men were on their feet at the end of the final round.

Madden did a good deal of the leading, because O'Kelley has not yet reached the part of the game where he can do so scientifically. When he did lead and played for Madden's body with a right punch, which was about all the lead he knew, Madden came back with a right hook to O'Kelley's face.

In the fourth round he cut O'Kelley over the left eye, and during the rest of the bout that eye was bleeding continuously. Madden seeming to hit O'Kelley there at will, the latter having a poor defence on this side.

O'TOOLE GETS DRAW BY A GREAT RALLY

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—The wind-up at the National A. C. brought together Joe Coster of Brooklyn and Tommy O'Toole of Port Richmond. The "wise ones" were given a surprise by the Brooklyn boy obtaining a draw with Tommy. In fact it was so much of an upset that the sensational rally in the last two rounds enabled O'Toole to emerge without a reverse decision

NITCHIE AND BROAD BATTLE TO A DRAW

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—Young Nitchie and Kid Broad came together in the wind-up at the Nonpareil A. C., and honors were even in six rounds. It was a thrilling clash, both boys being willing to mix it at all times.

Broad displayed the most skill and was a trifle more sturdy than his rival, but the latter did most all the leading and was strong at the finish.

News of Hockey and Basketball Players

THE AMERICAN will gladly publish the news of interest to the basketball and hockey players of Greater Boston and nearby cities and towns. Managers should communicate with the Sporting Editor.

BRADLEY SIGNS WITH RED SOX

John I. Taylor, president of the Red Sox, to-day closed a contract with Hugh Bradley, who was an abnormal sensation in last season and who has been counted as a possible successor to Jake Stahl at first base. Bradley came from Worcester to the Red Sox, caught some games and played both at first station and in the outfield. He batted brilliantly, but didn't show great prowess with the war club.

Bradley will stay on the team as a general utility man and will be given a thorough tryout with others at first sack in the Spring training. The Red Sox figure he can improve in the batting line. In the meantime President Taylor has his eyes open for a regular first baseman who can wrap the ball somewhere after the manner of Jake Stahl. But since approved first basemen are one of the scarcest articles in the big leagues just now it looks like one of those youngsters will have to be given a trial. At least one of these is now on the books and will be given a chance in the Spring training.

YOUNG DONAHUE AND CY SMITH IN DRAW

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Young Donahue of Boston and Cy Smith of Hoboken fought two fast rounds here, the bout ending in a draw. Donahue had a lead in the early rounds on points, but Smith's aggressiveness earned him an even break.

BOXERS BOOST FIREMEN'S FUND

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—Tony Biddle, millionaire clubman and amateur boxer, became a prose agent for the time being and assured the success of the benefit of the American A. C., owned and run by his friend, "Jack O'Brien." It was the opening day at the magnificent new clubhouse and while little may be said for the bouts, from a social and charitable standpoint it was a bowling success.

Not only did Mr. Biddle succeed in getting Mayor Reyburn into the ring but he also had all the Walnut street swelldom there and after getting them there he made them disgorge.

Before the mills started, Biddle announced from the ring that his friends would be expected to contribute something toward the fund for the relief of injured firemen. Then he and Walter Wheeler, another amateur, passed satchels and went through the society crowd.

When they finished, there was mighty little money left in the pockets of the civilian leaders and the satchels were heaping full of bills of large denominations.

I Wish You a Prosperous and Happy New Year

Readers of the Boston American: An analysis of all criticisms of Mitchell, The Tailor, summed up, amounts to this fact, my prices are too low. At a recent meeting of the merchant tailoring solicitors' association, this was the answer. Now I wish to correct this. In this big city there are thousands of men who would trade with me if they were positively sure that I would produce good clothes at the prices I advertise. Men with families of growing boys, who have been accustomed to paying $15, $18, $20 for clothes which cost him so much they have to be passed to the second boy the second and husbands of wives who pay $100 for a gown on a $25 a week salary; the M. D. who has to give his clothes hard service; the lawyer who rubs his elbows on the table burning the midnight oil; in fact if the general public could come in to my store and meet me, we could discuss this question. I think I could make you start the year 1911 right, and when later in the season I open my new store with the line of woolens for which I am raising $60,000 throughout New England, you will not only be convinced, but an invitation to my opening Feb. 1st will be appreciated, as this will be the fashion display of the year.

HARVARD SEVEN OUT FOR TITLE

With the resumption of academic activities at Harvard today after the Christmas recess, various sports take on a more serious aspect, but most important of them as far as actual competition is concerned, being hockey.

The Harvard septet meets one of its most formidable opponents Saturday in the fast McGill team of Montreal. Tomorrow night the seven of the Springfield Manual Training School, which is more or less of a dark horse, will battle the Crimson. No conclusions can be drawn from the record of the Springfield team, but it is a veteran seven, and as in football, it is likely to give the collegians a hard go for the money in the hockey game tomorrow, especially since Harvard is likely to be without the services of Captain Hendrickson, the best forward on the team.

It is going to mean a lot to every Harvard athlete to wear the Crimson in every contest, as it will permit one to stand on record as to what all the big set-downs of the season have had to say, and what changes the terms of his letter may have undergone. Princeton, Harvard and the Navy will battle for the championship of the Eastern section, and the winner of the Crimson would have a good reason to cling to the International collegiate championship, for she seems to be in line to take the measure of the other contenders.

Cornell seems to be the dominant factor in the hockey series this Winter as everywhere else, however, the Ithacans have not been playing quite as well as they did last year, for while they have not lost a game of hockey a team could be selected that would defeat them, and Harry Hillman's proteges have been playing some fast hockey. Yale does not give evidence of having a championship contending team, but it is a hard one to beat, and Harvard will have to be at her best to defeat the Blue.

The Harvard team has been practicing regularly since last Tuesday at the Arena and has gained considerable speed. Brae-Burn, which it won 4 to 2, and seems to be developing rapidly under the tutelage which it showed prior to the Christmas Recess.

BOWLING ALLEY NEWS

Harry O'Brien of the Everett Lodge of Elks has issued a team challenge to defend the championship of Greater Boston. The Elks will keep up the title they have won for the last two years by defeating all comers this season. O'Brien's team is composed of Harry Hall, Jack Hall, Jack Hall, Jr., Jack Hall, 3d, and Jack Hall, 4th. Any team desiring to take on the Everett aggregation may call at Sweeney's alleys during the week to be lined up for a match game.

There will be a hot time at the Harvard alleys tonight, as the Harvard All Stars will have a special on the return match. In the game at the same alleys last night the Boston boys were held to a stiff defeat, and are planning to get square tonight. Leonard Sullivan will lead them at 10 sharp with a string of 75, if every one makes a strike. Lucky for him, that he is a left-handed bowler.

Lynn fans can well feel proud of the bowling team. Frankie Hughes and Leo Fallon are two of the best bowlers in the country, and they will be at it again tonight with all 21 of the Lynn bowlers.

Timmy Burns (Dedick Square fame) are a bad bunch of bowlers to run up against, as they are out going fast, but they have a world of competitors. However the Bolters representatives from the Bolters Club in Quincy to give Lynn the Greater Boston City League a hard bowling test Friday night.

Bill Galway is practicing daily to get into condition for the coming bowling season. Bill has been a star bowler for the past few years and is about ready to start in the big leagues. Bill has been bowling in the Boston Bowling League for the past few years and is about ready to start in the big leagues. Bill has been bowling in the Boston Bowling League for the past few years and is about ready to start in the big leagues.

Bill Hanna of Maggie's alleys got a scare from Hall's team, but was rescued by the timely aid of Fallon on his anchor. He is doing nicely and it is hoped of some will be back at the alleys and ready to take any who think they can beat.

Holders of the scores of the Greater Boston City League, which is decided to name the Bowling Club, announce a complimentary dance in honor of the gentlemen of the organization, at the club house, Charles River road, to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock.

BIG FIVES HAVE 4 GAMES TO-DAY

GAMES TO-DAY.

Charlestown High vs. Roxbury High at Charlestown.
West Roxbury High vs. East Boston High at East Boston.
Winchester High vs. Newton High at Winchester.
Taunton High vs. Quincy High at Quincy.
St. Joseph T. S. and A. A. vs. St. Francis at Charlestown.

Four high school and two independent basketball games are scheduled for today. Two of these the Charlestown High and Roxbury High games, and the West Roxbury High and East Boston High, should furnish the followers of the game with plenty of excitement.

Captain Peterson of the Charlestown High team will be in the line of the Noble and Greenough School team, and as they, out of the play at the Arena recently, they are looking for a victory.

The two prominent games between the Roxbury Memorial and the Latin High school teams will be played. These games are very evenly matched and it will be hard to pick a winner.

HACKETT TO COMPETE IN LONDON MARATHON

William J. Hackett, the Brookline track runner, Association long-distance runner, has won the Brockton Fair Marathons in three years, will be one of the Boston Athletic Association team to compete in the London Marathon, to be held on queen Victoria's birthday, May 24, at London. Hackett will make a tour of the country about April 1 and will finish his preparatory work at the track of the Polytechnic Athletic Association before going, but as it is figured that the London day is a great event would interfere with the English event he has decided to abandon this idea.

B. A. A. RELAY TEAM TO MEET N. Y. STARS

A relay quartet of quarter-milers representing the B. A. A. will be matched against the pick of the New York A. C. short distance fliers. If this race takes place at New York, the Harvard team will give the Unicorn wearers a race at their own meeting in Mechanics' Building February 11. An effort is being made to bring the New Yorkers here, however.

METS' LADIES DANCE.

The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, associated with the Metropolitan Driving Club, announce a complimentary dance in honor of the gentlemen of the organization, at the club house, Charles River road, to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock.

Desperate Desmond

A Continued Picture Drama of Love and Hate, with a Thrill in Its Every Picture

"YOU HANG ME, THE SECRETS OF CAPTAIN KIDD'S TREASURE DIES WITH ME. RELEASE MY MATES AND I'LL SHOW YOU WHERE IN THE GOLD IS."
PIECES OF EIGHT, EH!
THE MATES BELIEVE IN ME AND YOU DARE NOT SHOOT, HA, HA, HA!
I'VE BEEN PICKED AS GUARD YOU, DESMOND, ONE FALSE TURN AND YOU DIE!
CLAUDE CLAIMS TO HAVE SWUM ASHORE AND, UNDISCOVERED, STEERED NEAR THE COCOANUT GROVE AND FOIL THAT SCOUNDREL'S PLOT.
AHOY, CLAUDE! AHOY!
CLAUDE IS A DEAD MAN, HA, HA, HA!
OH! FAREWELL MY ROSAMOND!
WHILE THE HUNGRY GIRAFFES ARE LOOKING ACROSS FOR THE COCOAS, I'LL ESCAPE WITH MY ROSAMOND, HA, HA.
YOU, TOO, FIEND!
TIS A DANGEROUS CHANNEL, MR. BUT YOU CAN TRUST TO LAND YOU SAFELY.
PIECES OF EIGHT!

Desmond is not at all stuck on the idea of being hanged at the yardarm. He doesn't mind the disgrace so much as does the choking sensation. Being bound hand and foot, he must rely on head work to get him out of the scrape he is in. You'd never think he could get away with that pirate treasure bunk, but he does.

They are taking an awful chance, letting Desmond steer the ship, but they is a pretty slick proposition, and it's doubtful if they would have done it if they hadn't been so confident that he will not be able to escape. They will be very much surprised, however. Of course, Claude is standing guard over the villain to see that he doesn't attempt any funny business, but we greatly fear that our hero is not the best man in the world for that job.

Claude means well all right, but Desmond is a thousand times the slicker of the two. Claude is no match for him in the Arctic regions.

What did we tell you? Desmond has steered the ship right into the midst of a get a better aim at the crocodiles, a mutiny of course is occurring, but Claude's attention from the more important work of keeping an eye on his arch enemy, Desmond, but there actions are passing right into the villain's hands.

Far be it from us to insinuate that these dumb beasts are accomplices of Desmond, but there actions are powerful suspicious. They are one more point in Desmond's favor. Of course Claude will have to remain awake a little while longer before he can be certain of that, but we can't help feeling sorry for poor Rosamond, who is once more in Desmond's power. Of course Claude will have to rescue Rosamond, who is once more in Desmond's clutches, but we can't help feeling sorry for poor Rosamond, who is once more in Desmond's clutches, but we can't help feeling sorry for poor Rosamond, HA, HA, HA!

In a way, it serves Claude Lehire right, he should have hanged that scoundrel when he had the chance. At the same time, we can't help feeling sorry for poor Rosamond, who is once more in Desmond's clutches, but we can't help feeling sorry for poor Rosamond, HA, HA, HA!

Crow's pictures will answer the question.

Women Who Board

By WINIFRED BLACK

I MET three women who board the other day, and I asked them why they did it.

One said: "I board because it's cheaper than keeping house. My husband hates it, and I'm not crazy about dressing for three meals a day, and being criticised by a lot of old fubbies every time I have a little love spat with my husband; but it's cheaper—and Harry does hate big bills."

The second woman said: "We board because it's easier. The servant girl question is a terrible problem, and no woman in the world wants to waste around in dish water three times a day."

"I wouldn't wash dishes for the Shah of Persia, not if he hung me all over in diamonds, much less will I wash dishes for a plain, everyday business man, who never likes the way I cook until I'm dressed in the nines, curled and puffed and manicured till my nails glitter like Sarah Bernhardt's diamonds."

The third woman said: "We board because it's pleasanter. No; my husband doesn't think it's pleasanter. He likes housekeeping best. Why shouldn't he, when he has all the comfort and none of the worry? But I hate being alone. There are always pleasant people in a boarding house, and you never have to go to bed at 9 o'clock just because there's no one to talk to."

I wonder what the husbands of these three women really do think about it all? The woman who boards because it's cheaper; how little pride she has to admit that anybody is a better manager than she is, if she would really put her mind to managing.

The woman who boards because it's easier—easier for H-E-R, and nobody but her.

Why doesn't she think of her husband a little? What if he should give up his position downtown and say he was going to stay at the boarding house all the time because it was "easier"? He doesn't work like a dog six days out of seven to make money to take care of her because it's easy. He does it because he thinks it's his duty, and he'd do it to the best of his ability no matter how many "easier" things there were in the world for him to do.

The woman who boards because it's pleasanter—pleasanter? Save the mark. What can a woman mean when she calls a boarding house pleasanter than a home? Nobody to talk to, and her husband has a great library full of all the interesting people in the world—Russians and French and Germans and Englisn, old and young, brave and gay, good and bad—and all she has to do is to open a book and find them.

Some one to talk to! Not some one in the same place of business where I work for eighteen months. He suddenly became ill and was away from business a week. I and two other girls in the place, hearing that he was seriously ill, went up to his house to see him. There were a sweet little mother and married sister. What I want to know is, was it very wrong of us to go to see him?

ALBINA.

As you met the mother and sister, there was no harm in calling. At the same time I would not advise you to repeat the visit, as his people might consider it strange.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NOT IN THE CIRCUMSTANCES

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A young man is working in the same place of business where I work for eighteen months. He suddenly became ill and was away from business a week. I and two other girls in the place, hearing that he was seriously ill, went up to his house to see him. There were a sweet little mother and married sister. What I want to know is, was it very wrong of us to go to see him?

ALBINA.

As you met the mother and sister, there was no harm in calling. At the same time I would not advise you to repeat the visit, as his people might consider it strange.

MAY NOT BE SERIOUS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping company with a young man three years my senior for the past two years. During that time we have been parted several times, but he always comes back again. He has been quite attentive of late, but the only time he speaks with me is Wednesday evening and Sunday. He does not seem to think of me between the times he calls, as I never hear from him. Even if he tells me he will call me up he neglects to keep his promise.

He seems to go to a number of places, but never takes me to any of them. Do you think he does right? He knows I object to this. Now I do not go to any affairs without him. Do you think he should go without me?

We are not engaged; in fact, he has never spoken of an engagement. I've known him longer do you think I should wait? I have lost all of my friends, they all knowing that he seemed to be serious.

ALBINA.

I THINK you are very foolish to give the same time to your friends and going out on this account. He may look on you merely as a good friend and has no serious intentions at all. If he were really in love I do not think he would go out without you.

BETTER WAIT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man, twenty-one years and six months old, and am in love with a very charming girl of twenty-two. Our folks have positively forbidden us going together, as her folks have money, and I have not. We tried to break away from each other, but cannot do so any longer, so we have decided to marry. Do you think it a wise enough to live only on my salary? Please advise me.

B.

You would be much wiser to wait until you have a little more money and her parents' consent. You are both young and your salary is small; much better wait. You should not take a girl away from a comfortable home unless you can take good care of her.

BEST SALAD

THE best salad you have ever eaten: One large chicken boiled and cold, yolk of three eggs, boiled hard, one and one-half tablespoons of salad oil, one-half pint of vinegar and some of chicken gravy, one gill of mixed mustard, one-half teaspoon pepper, salt to taste, two small heads of lettuce, one of the most in small pieces, celery. Mix all together, mash yolks of eggs smooth, chop the whites and mix with butter, mustard and vinegar. Stir all together and set where it will keep cool before using.

Married Life the Second Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

AFTER all, Helen did not have the family for New Year's dinner.

Warren's father was taken ill the day after Christmas, and the whole family were so concerned that any kind of a dinner or celebration was not to be thought of.

And Helen was glad—secretly wickedly glad. She told herself that, of course, she was sorry Mr. Curtis was ill, but it was only acute indigestion from eating too much Christmas dinner, she could not be seriously alarmed.

She and Warren and the baby had a quiet and restful New Year's at home.

The next several evenings afterwards that Warren went over to see his father for a while, Helen protested.

"Why what's the matter? Helen asked suspiciously. "Is your father worse?"

"No," curtly. She's sitting up."

"What is it then—something has happened?"

"Auntie was there."

She told me about the cut glass pitcher and the silver candlesticks."

"Well?"

"She damaged a piece nicked out of the edge."

"Oh, I'm so sorry—they must have done it in the delivery."

"No!" he stormed. "You bought it that day."

"Yes," he fairly roared at her, "it came with the piece wrapped separately."

There was a moment's tense silence. Then she spoke quietly.

"I see. Well. Now that you know—I'll listen."

Listen to what?

"To all that you are going to say about my deception and trickery."

"Trickery—deception—what is it? You're clever, all right—you're a darned sight too clever for me. I have hoped the baby won't inherit your particular form of cleverness and deceit. I hope when she's old enough to send Christmas presents she'll be honest enough to send things once in the can't afford anything better. And your pretty expensive thing that's damaged and count on my honesty. Including it was broken in delivery. If they hadn't wrapped the piece separately that's what they would have thought—and you, I suppose, would have been happy to let them think so."

He paused. Helen was waiting—very apparently waiting for him to go on.

She fumed. "You are trying to hetsen. It out—as if you thought there was a perfectly plausible explanation for this."

"No," she answered quietly, "it was not a commendable thing. Neither was it condemnable. I am to blame for the choice of the Christmas shopping gone me—and I have given you the money to do better with it."

And above all I would appreciate it if you would not say anything to Auntie Mary about it. She is old and ill and—"

"Well, I should think I really could. Your family have never appeared of me—one more cause for their disapproval won't matter. And since lately you, too, have done nothing but criticise me—you might as well criticise me for this as for anything else."

And, without giving him time to answer, she quickly left the room.

CHAPTER VIII.

One Thousand Rupees Reward

THE Terai was in consternation. Captain Treayon of the Forest Department had been killed by his khansamah, Bijoo; the latter's wife, Chandni, had been horribly mutilated by her infuriated husband in accordance with an immemorial right claimed by the men of the Terai in such cases, and the government had offered a reward of one thousand rupees for the capture of the injured husband.

"Are we dogs?" said Ram Deen, indignantly, when the Thanadar had displayed a notice of the reward printed in Nagari that was to be posted throughout the Terai. "Are we dogs, brothers, that the sirkar should tempt us with base money to betray men for exacting just retribution from those who wrong them?

"We be men, cock-thein Ji," said the bullock driver, valiantly; and whilst he spoke the great dog, Hastwen, who lay at Ram Deen's feet, pricked up his ears and growled as a shadow crept along the ground from the peepul tree in front of the village temple to a clump of tall grass some fifty paces from the Thanadar's fire.

"Peace!" exclaimed Ram Deen, venting his spleen on the dog with a blow from his shoe; "dost thou not know a jackal as yet?" Then to those assembled round the fire he went on, raising his voice: "Kali Mal whither the hand that betrayeth Bijoo, and fire consume his hut! There is contention even in my house, because the woman Chandni is kin to my wife, who believes in her innocence; but better such contention, and bitter silence for kindly speech, than that brothers should set brothers, and so make light the honor of men in the Terai!"

"Nevertheless," said the Thanadar, "this notice must be posted wherever town, post or congregate throughout this Zemindaree."

"Nevertheless," retorted Ram Deen, bitterly, "without disrespect to thee, Thanadar Sahib, it shall be told throughout the Terai that Ram Deen spat on the notice of the sirkar and tore it in shreds;" and the driver of the mail-cart proceeded to make his words good.

Next evening, when the mail-cart drew up to the post-office, Bittu Bibee plucked Ram Deen's sleeve as he dismounted. "Thou must come with me," he said, simply.

"Must, Little Parrot?"

A Sign of Capitulation

"Ay, father mine. Tara wanteth thee; and there is pilau for thy evening meal."

Now Ram Deen had fed on ganga Ram's stale cutes the evening before for having expressed approval of the mutilation of Chandni, and this prospect of pilau, besides appealing shrewdly to his eager stomach, was, indeed, a sign of capitulation on the part of the young wife and had not lately scolded.

As he approached his hut his nostrils were assailed with the orders of a great cooking.

"Thou seest, my father," said little Bittu, "that the rope that shall hang him is already made, for the sirkar never fails to find whom it seeks. But Bijoo, alive or dead, is worth a thousand rupees to the man who shall take him. 'Twere pity that the money should go to some luckier of a man, for it belongs, of a right, to Chandni, whom he hath wrongfully maimed; but he is a man, and will, doubtless, make the only reparation in his power, and yield himself up, for she, to some one who will follow the blood money upon her."

The shadow rose from the peepul tree and speedily disappeared in the darkness. Soon after, Ram Deen and all round the fire heard the dreadful lamenting of a strong man who walks between Heaven and Jeelpai.

"Brothers," said Ram Deen, as he rose to go to his hut, "alive or dead, Bijoo will be here to-morrow night."

At the fire, next evening, no one spoke. They were waiting for the fulfilment of Ram Deen's prediction, and the bugle-call of the faithful wah had just been heard in the direction of the Bore bridge.

"O Star, an' you should tell it abroad that I did not sleep in mine own house last night, it would blacken my face to Kuladoungie."

"Thou wilt say, perchance, that I gossip at the village well. Go on, what next?"

"Only this, if thou meet'st aught of Bijoo, let no one but Dutt's bullock-cart."

"Twas well, Lumbu Deen (Long Legs), lo, too, ho! The rope was that of a bullock-cart balanced across a wall. Proceed."

"The grain bags I lay on, Heart of my Heart, were stony, and the night was full of noises."

"Yes. And thou wast warm?"

"Nay, Beloved, for there was not room for the drawing up of my knees between myself and Goor Dutt, so my feet were frozen, and Goor Dutt ceased not from snoring."

"'Twas well, Oppressor of Women and Children. And thy evening meal?"

"Light of the Terai, Ganga Ram's stale pooris were ill-bestowed on a pariah dog,—but that is not cry, little one."

A sound of wailing came from the inner room, where the women were weeping in each other's arms. "Ahe! ahe!"

"Tara," exclaimed Ram Deen, starting to his feet, "who is the man with thee? and why is she here?"

"It is I, Chandni," said a thick, muffled voice, "and thou dost me wrong, coach-driver Ji. Therefore, the stranger woman proceeded to tell Ram Deen of the capture of Treayon sahib, and of her own horrible mutilation.

When she had finished, Ram Deen said, "It is a brave stroke that Bijoo gave the sahib."

"My Lord Is Good as Great"

"It was well done, khodswand."

"And thou art not sorry for the killing of the sahib?"

"Doorga restore me, and affilet me again, if I do not think it was a killing."

"They will hang Bijoo for it; a thousand rupees hath been offered for his taking, alive or dead."

"Ahe! ahe!" wailed the strange woman. "Men will be wicked for even ten rupees."

"But he robbed thee of thy beauty," demonstrated Ram Deen.

"'Twas right to do so, in his eyes," was the reply.

"And 'tis true thou wast in Treayon sahib's tent for the helping of Bijoo?"

"As Nana Debi is my witness. And I know not all that happened, for the sahib gave me strong waters to drink that robbed me of my senses."

"Toba! toba!" exclaimed Ram Deen, walking towards the outer door. "Wife, Tara, it is time they relative is properly lodged this night."

"And to-morrow night?" queried Tara.

"To-morrow night I would eat of a hit seethed in milk and stuffed with pistachios by thy honorable kinswoman. Moreover, I will make provision for her ere the week is out."

"My lord is good as he is great," said Tara, as Ram Deen left the hut.

The next night, as they sat around the fire, Ram Deen could till the shadow crept from the peepul tree to the clump of tall grass.

"Brothers," he began, speaking deliberately and in loud tones, "the woman we spake of last night is guiltless of wrong, as I now know. She is here and in my hut, and an honored guest." He paused and looked round the circle grimly.

"We be poor men, cock-thein Ji," said the driver, deprecatingly, "and thy honorable kinswoman is deserving, doubtless, of thy wise consideration."

"She is deserving of the consideration due to a woman who was greatly wronged by the villain who was slain, and by the sandaan, his slayer. She was lured, brothers, in to the sahib's tent by the sweeper's wife, Dhanoo, who is a bone she-wolf"—for the purpose of pleading for her man. Bijoo, who was accused of theft; and then she was robbed of her senses by the sahib's strong waters, and bath done no wrong; let no pai in the Terai gainsay it!"

Ram Deen paused awhile to "drink tobacco," but nobody made comment on a matter in which he was so greatly interested.

"Bijoo's life is forfeit," he resumed; "and the rope that shall hang him is already made, for the sirkar never fails to find whom it seeks. But Bijoo, alive or dead, is worth a thousand rupees to the man who shall take him. 'Twere pity that the money should go to some luckier of a man, for it belongs, of a right, to Chandni, whom he hath wrongfully maimed; but he is a man, and will, doubtless, make the only reparation in his power, and yield himself up, for she, to some one who will follow the blood money upon her."

The shadow rose from the peepul tree and speedily disappeared in the darkness. Soon after, Ram Deen and all round the fire heard the dreadful lamenting of a strong man who walks between Heaven and Jeelpai.

"Brothers," said Ram Deen, as he rose to go to his hut, "alive or dead, Bijoo will be here to-morrow night."

At the fire, next evening, no one spoke. They were waiting for the fulfilment of Ram Deen's prediction, and the bugle-call of the faithful wah had just been heard in the direction of the Bore bridge.

"'Tis a sameful death, for the hangman is a sweeper, some brother to Bhag Dhanoo," said Tara.

"Nevertheless, proceed; but promise me that thou will trap the lane with in some pit of hell, Ram Deen."

"Fret not thyself on that score, Bijoo; I have already given the matter thought. But why should the sirkar hang them? Why not shoot them as dogs? Bijoo may and I picked a branch that overhung us with my whip.

"Thou art right, Ram Deen," he said quietly; "but I have not slept for many nights, and my thought is not clear. He then stooped, groping in the dust of the mail-cart, and drew forth one of the best ropes of the horses.

"Throwing one end of the rope over the branch that was above us, he fastened it thereto with a running loop, and then, encircled his neck with a noose at the other end.

"As he stood up on the seat, he asked, 'Shall will give me freedom from burning, Ram Deen?' And I replied, 'I will be honored of life in thee in this matter.'

"Not Forget the Reckoning"

"'Tis well. Thou wilt not forget thy reckoning with Bhamraya?'

"But ere I could make reply, the gray wolf that hunts beyond the bridge howled, and the horses broke from me in their fear, so that I could not stay them till we reached the Saloi Tal road."

"Yes, brothers," said the hostler, at whom Ram Deen looked for confirmation of this part of his story, "I had scarce time to leap to one side, as the mail-cart sped past me whilst I waited on the bridge."

More he would have said,—for he had never before enjoyed the privilege of speech at the Thanadar's fire, and the occasion was special,—but he saw in Ram Deen's face that which gave him pause, and he and all sat still, and in silence, for many generations, and—

"So, Thanadar Ji," interrupted Ram Deen, "as soon as I could restrain the horses I turned them back, and, after picking up the hostler (who, because he is more skirsh, is wiser than most poor men who are ever talking of what they know not), I drove to the Bukloo tree where hung Bijoo as dead as you saw him but now."

"After a pause, he said, 'Brothers, let it be told in the Terai that Bijoo came back as befitted an honorable man.'

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

In all noteworthy swings in prices it is found that money interests had been the bottom and dear or tight money at the top.

$ $ $

In the last twelve months there has been a good deal of readjustment to the affairs of the country at large and things are on the mend. It should not be a hard task to put the market higher from this time on. The rails are confident they can do this.

$ $ $

The action of the stock market for 1910 can be seen at a glance by looking at the averages. The highest for the year was 128.38 on January 22, and the lowest 102.82 in July, a decline of 24.06. Since July the average has advanced 2.51 points to 81.44 and now is 16.56 points above the lowest of a year ago. This will be made up easily.

$ $ $

There is no danger that the great American dollar will be worked to death in 1911. On the theory that odds is to State Street, that is, two and a half may make merry in the speculative district, but a long never can. Reckless buying in both bonds and speculation is to be not too longish. It does not pay and that which does not bring in profits is not worth bothering with.

$ $ $

Readjustment is the order of the day and it is bringing wisdom in its train. There will be less speculation in 1911 than there was in 1906 and 1909, but the results will be more satisfactory and there will be no danger of creating a fool's paradise. Common sense and good judgment promise to be the guiding stars this year.

$ $ $

The ease in money in present circumstances is justified until the end of March as the result in a measure of a depression in business, but it is the history of the past that in dull commercial periods those who are stiffest and farsighted buy stocks and well knowing they will come up. When they do and bonds rise it is on a better basis by may be sold to advantage.

$ $ $

Many new enterprises have been financed with small capital in the past when the stock market inevitably registers improvement in business and commercial affairs long before it is apparent to the average observer. This is the time why so many fortunes get in near the top. They do not take time by the forelock and wait too long.

$ $ $

It is not possible to engineer a special native boom in the stock market and a brief business campaign at the same time. Because every investor wants it has been tried and the result never has been satisfactory. The most recent example of this were in 1906 and in 1909 and the people of the country know what happened. What might have been no boom in the speculative market in the first year of the new era has been for the activities of the late E. H. Harriman, but it came all the same—and with a vengeance.

Union Pacific November gross of $8,566,643 was 2 per cent. in advance of that of November, 1909. Compared with previous year Union Pacific has shown a gain in gross every month for two years. Since May, however, net has shown a decrease from the 1909 figures every month, the $4,004,611 reported for November being 1 per cent. less than last year.

TECH CAMPAIGN FOR ANNUAL GRANT

President Richard Cockburn MacLaurin of Massachusetts Institute of Technology is at the head of a campaign of Tech men to obtain through the Legislature an annual grant of $100,000 for the Institute. The State aid of $25,000 which Tech has had in the past, expires this year. The starting guns of the campaign will be heard tomorrow evening at the Hotel Somerset, when Technology Alumni, 500 strong, will hold their annual banquet and installation of new officers. Among speakers of the evening include George W. Perkins, who has just retired from the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York. The subject of Mr. Perkins's address will be "Efficiency." The other speakers will be President MacLaurin, Frederick W. Taylor, efficiency engineer of Philadelphia, and Louis R. Rourke, '95, superintendent of streets of Boston.

ROBIN HEARING IS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Joseph G. Robin, indicted bank wrecker, is not able to appear for arraignment before Justice Crain today. Drs. Gregory and Bishop made another examination of Robin in the prison ward at Bellevue Hospital last night and concluded he was in no condition to appear this morning. They said, however, that Wednesday he might be arraigned without danger to his physical or mental condition. The Grand Jury is expected to begin its labor with evidence on which indictments will be asked for the wrecking of banks connected with the two Robin banks. These officials who have been named only indirectly, are said to be in closer reach of the criminal statutes than Robin himself, as the latter was clever enough always to operate through one of his various corporations.

ROCKEFELLER GIFT TO VERMONT COLLEGE

BURLINGTON, Vt., Jan. 3.—A check for $67,966 from the Rockefeller foundation has been received by Treasurer C. D. The $400,000 has been subscribed, and of the amount $271,600 has been collected. The $500,000 is to be added to the endowment fund for the general uses of the university.

FIRE GUARD FOR GREATER BOSTON

Fire Commissioner Daly has issued an order appointing Deputy Chief Grady, Superintendent of Alarms Donahoe and District Chief Perkins of Boston as a special board to arrange for the installation of a mutual aid system between the Boston fire department and all the outlying cities and towns. STOCK MARKET VERY LIFELESS

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Trading in wall street today was extremely dull, only a few of the standard railroad stocks quoting changes in prices. Canadian Pacific led the railroad group with a gain of ½ a point in the first twenty minutes. A similar gain was recorded in Lehigh Valley, but later that stock became weak.

Union Pacific, Reading and Northern Pacific, which opened fractionally higher, later shaded off. Steel, which opened strong and active, declined under weakness and fell back nearly two points.

Most of the standard industries showed fractional gains during the early trading. In most of the stocks prices were unchanged over the opening. November gross earnings of Northern Pacific amount to $5,972,741, an increase of $383,982. Net earnings of the road for the same period were $2,247,178, an increase of $183,988.

Americans were heavy in London.

ALIENISTS CALLED IN GALLAGHER CASE

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—A dozen or more alienists will be called to the end to-day in Jersey City when James J. Gallagher, who wounded Mayor Gaynor, is arraigned on an indictment charging him with shooting with intent to kill Commissioner J. Edwards, commissioner of street cleaning. It is probable that all the experts will pronounce Gallagher insane, though a difference of opinion over the exact nature of the mental affliction is expected. If adjudged insane, Gallagher will be committed to an asylum.

TWO SHOCKS TO KILL WIFE SLAYER

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Samuel Austin, convicted of wife murder in Westchester County, was electrocuted in Sing Sing prison at 6 o'clock this morning. Owing to the peculiar shape of Austin's head the electrode did not fit snugly, and when the current was first turned on a ring of flame flashed around his forehead and in a moment the apartment was filled with the odor of burnt hair. The second shock did the job.

PAPAL DECREE ON LATIN DOGMA

ROME, Jan. 3.—The observatore Romano, the Vatican organ, publishes a papal decree to all ordinaries which aims at neutralizing the effect which the articles recently written by Prince Maximilian of Saxony may have produced, to explain which the Prince left Rome and appealed before the Pope and Cardinal Merry del Val.

The epistle says that since the separation of the Roman and oriental churches in the ninth century, the Popes have always endeavored to lead a branch thereof to return to the Faith and to the Church, and to accept the six dogmas which, according to Prince Maximilian's article, should be waived to facilitate the return of the oriental to the Catholic church, declaring that this is impossible, as dogma is truth and truth cannot be waived.

The epistle declares that Prince Maximilian, in the presence of the Pope, solemnly undertook to teach, reject and condemn what the church teaches, rejects and condemns. It characterizes his article as unconsidered, but written in good faith.

The article by Prince Maximilian, a younger brother of the King of Saxony, appeared in a periodical entitled "Rome and the Orient," edited by the Abbot Pelligrini of the College of St. Basil, and was for the purpose of aiding union of eastern and western churches.

It was especially severe in its denunciation of Popes Nicholas I, Leo IX, and Innocent III, in their dealings with the Greek church. Among the articles of belief which Prince Maximilian insisted could not be supplanted in the cause of union were better in purgatory, in transubstantiation and in the Roman view of confirmation.

Last week Prince Maximilian appeared in Rome, was given an audience by the Pope and, as the account above says, renewed his pledge of obedience to the supremacy of the church. He has returned to Freising, where he is professor of canon law and liturgy.

The complexities of the Eastern churches both as to rites and belief, are difficult to disentangle and explain, but broadly speaking, the root of the division in the Christian world dates back to a similar process in the Roman empire. The Eastern churches are those that originally depended on the Eastern empire at Constantinople. They find either their centre in the patriarchate of that city or stand for reference that in the first instance concerned elect unanimous rather than the Western world.

A Western church is one originally dependent on Rome, whose traditions are Latin, and an Eastern church looks to Constantinople (either as friend or enemy) and inherits Greek ideas. A united eastern church has not existed since prior to the council of Ephesus (431).

Included among the bodies that come under the title, Eastern, are the Orthodox Greek church, the Nestorians, the Copts, the church of Alexandria, the Jacobites, the Armenian church and the Abyssinian church, which, while in union with the Pope, have rites other than those of the Latin church.

ST. LOUIS SEES MISS GARDEN IN 'SALOME'

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 3.—Before one of the most brilliant audiences that ever assembled in St. Louis, Mary Garden and the Chicago Grand Opera Company performed "Salome" at the Coliseum. Although the Chicago singer defied the Coliseum was not so cold as to prevent Miss Garden from dancing garbed only in the seven veils.

BRANDEIS' PLAN TO SAVE MILLION A DAY

In a brief filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, Louis D. Brandeis of this city, points out how the railroads of the United States can save the $1,000,000 a day he recently declared was possible.

Mr. Brandeis asserts that higher standards of efficiency and not higher freight or passenger tariffs will solve the railroad problem from a financial standpoint.

"Economy within, not increased charges without, is the prescription for current railroad ills."

Mr. Brandeis is counsel for the Traffic committee of Commercial Organizations of the Atlantic Seaboard, which is protesting against the proposed increase in freight rates.

In his brief, he says in part:

How Railroads Can Save.

"It is undoubtedly true that even under the system of management prevailing among railroads, numerous economies are possible on each railroad, which, if introduced, would result in large annual savings to that company—saving far greater in amount than the added expenses due to the recent increases in the wage scale. For instance, each railroad were now to adopt in each department the best methods and practices now prevailing in any other American railroad, it is clear that the operating expenses of each company would be very largely reduced.

"The recent wage advances were doubtless the provocation for the concerted and insistent demand of the railroads for increased freight rates. These wage advances have certainly been grasped by the railroads as an excuse for demanding rate increases. But, it is not true that the wage advances of the present Congressional session are responsible for a general need by the railroads of additional revenues. The actual basis of the demands for increased rates commenced not in the recent wage advances, but two years earlier in the period of depression threatened the reduction of dividends. The action of Congress in abolishing rebates and passes has undoubtedly increased the railroads' revenues far more than the Congressional requirements of safety appliances and proper accounting, and the limitation of the hours of labor have increased expenses.

"The facts considered, in the conclusion that "at least $1,000,000 a day could be saved by the purchase of methods of scientific management" of American railroads.

Facts and figures from official reports of the railroads themselves are cited by Mr. Brandeis as taken from the testimony committed. The roads which he believes need no additional income are the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; the Philadelphia & Reading; the Pittsburg & Lake Erie; the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern; the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern; the Lake high Valley; the Delaware & Hudson, and the Pennsylvania railroad. Those lines which may need additional income for reasons other than necessary increases in operating expenses are put in the brief as the New York, New Haven & Hartford; the New York Central, and the Baltimore & Ohio. These are given as examples of this class of roads.

Gain to Labor.

Mr. Brandeis says: "This investigation had developed clearly that the railroads could not, by existing methods, meet any increased needs without, but within. If their net income is insufficient, the proper remedy is not higher rates, but lower costs, higher cost and lessened business, but scientific management, resulting in lower costs, in higher wages and increased business. If their income is impaired, the proper remedy is not to apply the delusive treatment of higher rates, but to strengthen their organizations by introducing advanced methods and eliminating questionable practices. Thus they will maintain credit by deserving it.

"The greater part of the present class rates have been in effect as published rates since the adoption of the official classification of 1887, and many of them for thirty years. Until the abolition between 1901 and 1906 of the practice of granting on the several railroads these published class rates were in fact largely secured by rebates, reducing the published rate at times by a discount of as much as 50 to 60 per cent, and averaging on the whole perhaps 20 per cent. Many articles covered by class tariffs have been raised by reclassification since 1901; for instance, cotton goods.

He takes on the gifts to labor under the management, and says:

"Under scientific management the employe is enabled to earn without greater strain upon his vitality from 25 to 60 per cent, and at times even 100 per cent more than under the old system. The larger wages are made possible by larger production; but this gain in production is not attained by speeding up. It comes largely from removing the obstacles to efficiency which the employe himself, who would regard any change as a criticism of the methods.

Unions, he holds, will support the introduction of the system, because it represents what they have been seeking.

FIRST 1911 BABY WINS SCHOLARSHIP

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Joseph Symoitz, born at 12:01 o'clock this morning in the city, gives promise of being one of fortune's favorites for the balance of his natural life. Already he has been awarded a scholarship in any college within the State that his parents may select. By arriving in the world just as the chimes rang out the old year Joseph established a prior claim over five other young gentlemen of the same age on the prize offered by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Jewish Maternity Hospital to the first arrival of 1911. The other five were a few minutes early or late, and the made the race exciting for the family of Symovitz.

DECLARES PASTOR'S DANCE NOT IMPROPER

RANGOR, Me., Jan. 3.—Commissioner A. W. Gilman of the State Board of Agriculture, who held a hearing here on the complaint of Rev. W. S. Berry, D. D., superintendent of the Maine Christian Civic League, against the management of the Eastern Maine State Fair, has dismissed the complaint. He gave an imitation of the alleged improper dance at the hearing, and claimed that in permitting a dancing act, which he declared was immoral, the fair management had forfeited its claim to the gratuity of about $1,700 from the State.

BOSTON-IDAHO MINING

Latest advices, direct from the Boston-Idaho Mining Company's camp, under date of December 20th, say: "Should present fine weather continue, the Silver-Lead concentrating mill will commence running in January."

A large tonnage of dump ore is now at mill head and ore is being delivered daily.

The Zinc Mill will commence running soon after the starting of the Silver-Lead Concentrating Mill.

In December, 1909, Mr. John Williams, Mining Engineer (since deceased), made an underground examination of the mines and measurements and assays of the ore exposed in the workings at that time.

Herewith are extracts from Mr. Williams's report:

"Lucky Boy Mine—This property shows nothing less than a phenomenal zinc ore body. I have had considerable experience in examining zinc veins and ore bodies in New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Missouri zinc fields. I have seen no such large and continuous body of high-grade and clean zinc ore. I carefully sampled the ore bodies exposed, taking nothing but an average sample, and I am satisfied that breaking down the ore from these stopes and faces will give equal results.

"My measurements and assays are: Stope in upper part of mine 12 feet wide, 38 feet long. Ore exposed on all faces 48.8% zinc. East end of same 36% zinc. Last eight feet on vein 10 feet wide on foot wall side of tunnel level. Ore exposed here for 42 feet, 25.1% zinc. Stope between tunnels One and Two ore body 12 feet wide, 22 feet 6 inches long, 33.4% zinc.

"Lower tunnel dump 42.2% zinc.

"The average contents of my samples from Lucky Boy Mine and dump are 36.7% zinc.

"I would say there are fully 30,000 tons of ore on the lower dump, and a very considerable tonnage on the upper dump.

"My measurements and assays of ore exposed in the Sunday Silver-Lead Mine: About three hundred feet from the portal of the tunnel, the ore shoot is encountered. I measured 120 feet of the shoot averaging 30 inches wide. This I sampled every three feet apart and sometimes even closer from top to bottom. The first 60 feet gave assay returns: Zinc, 19.6 per cent; lead, 10 per cent; silver and trace of gold per ton. The last third 60 feet gave assay returns viz.: 32.1% lead, 30.8 oz. silver and 40 cents gold per ton. This is really too good an ore for milling, as with a very little and cheap sorting fully 50 per cent of it at least can be made a high-class shipping ore, and the balance a very high-class milling ore. This is a certainty from the impartial character of the sampling I gave the ores.

"I did not measure the Sunday dump, but satisfied myself fully that there are more than ten thousand tons of high-class milling ore on the dump that should not go over the company's very fine mill.

"Ontario Mine—Measurements and assays: I examined but one of the tunnels in this mine. I found in this tunnel twenty feet of ore in the vein. The assays gave returns 17.1% lead, 20.5 oz. silver per ton. The ore dumps are very large and contain a very large tonnage of ore available for milling.

"I wish to add that the very lowest grade of these ores will furnish a very profitable milling material."

Note the average value of the ores.

We herewith submit quotation from an eminent engineer's letter, which has never been heretofore used or published. This letter is under date of June 12th, 1908.

"June 12th, 1908.

"Boston-Idaho Mining Company, Boston, Mass.:

"Gentlemen—In June 5th I made an examination of the present mill on your property, for the purpose of making such changes as are necessary. I found the mill to be a very unprofitable plant for such a property as you have. I also made a thorough examination of the property and ore body, and I can conscientiously state that, with the new 100-ton mill as contemplated by your company will earn a net profit of $40,000 per month, with the ore showing your property has, independent of high-grade shipping ore.

"Yours truly,"
(We omit publishing the name.)

Extracts from a National Bank Examiner's letter to Mr. L. Diamond, under date of May 24, 1909.

"May 24, 1909.

"Mr. L. Diamond, 1137 Old South Building, Boston, Mass.:

"Dear Sir—My acquaintance with the Boyle Mountain Mines began about 10 years ago. The report I received at that time was of a most encouraging nature.

"I visited the Wood River section and think highly of it, and recent years' development have proven some of the statements and theories in the report, which was made me, which has gotten away from me.

"The mines have only been worked to a comparatively shallow depth from the surface. Have always felt that if the same amount were invested in proper development there, as is the custom in the Coeur d'Alene mining district, the results would be more profitable, as the ore is of higher grade and in an easier country to work.

"Yours very truly,"
(We omit the name.)

The financing of the Boston-Idaho Mining Company has been brought up to what we believe a successful point. The Silver-Lead concentrating mill will commence running in January. The Zinc mill will soon be running. The only outstanding bills against the company to date is $1443.33. These will be paid as soon as machinery is running and adjusted.

The Boston-Idaho Mining Company has been successfully financed on a cash basis, and it is our firm belief and the belief of everyone connected with the administration of the company, that stockholders will get exceptionally large returns on their money invested in Boston-Idaho Mining Company's stock.

TWO NEW YORK MOTOR SHOWS DRAW CROWDS

By J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Two motor shows are now in progress in this city. Both are attracting attention and what is more to the point, actual purchases.

The oldest of the two is that of the Independent Manufacturers, whose show was inaugurated in the Grand Central Palace on Saturday night. The youngest, yet by no means the least important, is known as the Importers' Show at the Hotel Astor, where none but imported cars are displayed. At this latter show, there has been no attempt made at extra decorations of the hall and adjoining rooms that are being used for the show. Models of almost every car imported are shown here. They certainly made a brave show, and by inactive display, calling forth words of commendation from all who visit the especially attractive display. Here are found cars whose selling prices make a small fortune.

The cars displayed all show the finest of detail in thoroughfare constructive detail praiseworthy in the extreme, and exemplify far better than can words the great thought, study and attention that has been given the subject by the masters of the Old World.

Little Change in Models.

Comparatively speaking, the models show but little change from the models of a year ago. The greatest departures, if it can be used here, is to be found in body construction and the tendency of chauffeur thought is being given to the comfort, pleasure and convenience of those who go a-motoring. It is here, as nowhere else in the question of appointments considered. While mechanical details have been all but perfected, and the improvements are simply a matter of detail, the designers are paying closer attention to appointments.

At the Independent show there is to be found a much more varied line of cars, whose selling price varies from $2,000 to $8,000, that one need not exchange a king's ransom for a motor vehicle.

Here one finds motor vehicles of every size and kind for pleasure or commercial purposes, both these branches of the industry having representation. In the pleasure line are to be found cars unheard of as new England, as well as those that have already established reputations.

Attendance is Large.

The same is true of the commercial line, in which the Garford truck, which made such an excellent showing in the recent AMERICAN truck run. The attendance at the show to-day was a large and interested one. It was made up of the merely curious, but of those who were really interested, and who were willing to exchange their coin for cars, many bona-fide sales being made, in fact, it is reported on authoritative grounds that the actual sales at this show have already surpassed the expectations of the most sanguine.

One of the most attractive exhibits is that of the Velie, whose Baron model, manufactured at Moline, Ill., is expected to arrive to-morrow. No less than nine models of the Velie are shown. Among the latter is an attractive coupe, finely appointed and perfect in lines attractiveness, manifestly satisfactory to my lady. These models are finished in various ways, the most popular seemingly being the racy looking gunmetal, setting off with fine stripping of black. The same motor is used in all models, the company having found by several years' of actual experience that the "40" is sufficiently true for each and every purpose. The 1911 model is practically a duplicate of its predecessor. The motor is made entirely in the Velie factory.

FAIR PLAY for Mr. Lodge; Hear Him at Symphony Hall To-night

The AMERICAN believes in fair play—fair play for everybody. And we want the fairest kind of fair play for Senator Lodge, even though this newspaper opposes his re-election.

We, therefore, urge as many of our readers as can, to go to Symphony Hall this evening and hear Mr. Lodge speak—hear the much heralded speech in which we hope he will tell the people of Massachusetts just WHAT THEY WANT TO KNOW.

It ought to be a great speech. Mr. Lodge is really an orator—if he is nothing else.

Mr. Lodge's speech this evening will be the most important and critical that he has ever delivered.

The occasion has been selected that he may present his whole case to the people. This he is entitled to do, and it is the duty of the people, both to him and to themselves, to consider very carefully what he may say.

Presumably, Mr. Lodge will dwell on the past, but we hope he will devote the larger part of his speech to a consideration of the great and immediate problems that now confront the American people.

What he may say of his past public career is of no importance. His record is known. It is not inspiring. He is a trust-made and corporation-bound Senator who has served the "interests" first, last and all the time.

The voters know his record and have pronounced against it. It is too late to hope for a reversal of judgment. Pride may make him attempt it, but without hope.

In a recent editorial the AMERICAN asked Mr. Lodge to clearly state in his speech this evening his position on the paramount policies of the present and immediate future.

What are the great questions that Lodge should discuss? What are the vital topics of interest to the every-day man and woman in this State?

The charge has been publicly made on the floor of Congress, and repeated many times in this State, that Senator Lodge so worded an amendment which he offered to the Naval Appropriation Bill in 1908 that it limited the United States Government's choice to the purchase of two colliers at a price nearly $500,000 in excess of what afterward proved sufficient to purchase better adapted vessels. Senator Lodge might explain THAT.

It will be recalled that in the United States Senate last April Senator Lodge made a defence of the New Haven merger, in which he upheld the amazing jugglery by which the illegal merger was put through, when it was known that that merger was in direct violation of a law of Congress that had already declared such merger a crime. He might explain THAT.

Also, why did Senator Lodge defend the action of Attorney-General Wickersham dismissing the Government's suit against the New Haven railroad at a time when the facts were all collected and the Government was ready to proceed to trial? Who caused THAT SUIT to be withdrawn, and why?

There are other questions that Senator Lodge should answer. For example:

Why are you opposed to the establishment of a Parcels Post? Is it not because "the interests" which you represent—the railroad and the express interests—are opposed to the Parcels Post? Everybody in the country knows that the Parcels Post is necessary. The people want a Parcels Post. "The interests" do not. Lodge is with "the interests."

Why are you opposed to a tax on incomes, Mr. Lodge?

Why are you opposed to reciprocal trade relations with Canada?

Why are you opposed to the principle of direct nominations?

Why are you opposed to the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people?

Why are you opposed to a revision of the tariff downward, as the Republican party promised in its platform of 1908?

What do you say to the charge that you have been "a faithful watchdog" for the woolen trust, the cotton trust and for special privileges in general?

Why are you opposed to the principle of the initiative and referendum?

Why are you opposed to a reform of the convention system?

Why are you opposed to pre-election publicity of campaign contributions, or to the public payment of campaign expenses by the State?

Why do you not expend some effort to extirpate the notorious State House lobby?

Why are you opposed to the Workingmen's Compensation Act?

Why do you oppose progressive labor legislation?

Why do you oppose a reform of injunction abuses?

Why do you oppose jury trials in cases of indirect contempt?

Why do you oppose the eight-hour bill—twice vetoed by Governor Draper?

Why do you oppose the principle of local self-government, with State interference only under general laws applicable to all municipalities?

Why do you favor the piling up, year after year, of useless commissions, paid for by the people, with the consequence that power and authority are removed too far from the people?

Why are you opposed to a Finance Commission that would investigate State and County affairs, with the saving of thousands of dollars annually to the people?

What will Mr. Lodge answer? How will he stand on these important problems, in the event of his re-election? What are the people to expect from him? Will he divorce himself from all financial and corporation interests? WILL HE FAITHFULLY REPRESENT ALL THE PEOPLE of Massachusetts in the United States Senate?

It is a great occasion for a great man!

The Philosophy of Cheer

By KENNETT HARRIS

Do you think that you're in trouble, are you gloomy and foreboding,
Have you griefs and tribulations, have you cares that are corroding,
Is your brow becoming wrinkled, are your cheeks becoming hollow
With the wear of your conviction that the worst is yet to follow?
Well, I have to do my duty, even if I do offend you,
And I very gladly do it if it's likely to amend you:
You are foolish. It's a silly, senseless habit you are getting—Fretting.

Will it help you? That's the question. Does it make your trouble lighter?
If you lose sleep about it, does the prospect grow much brighter?
Does the brooding till you're yellow greatly help the situation?
Will stern facts become less stubborn upon saddened contemplation?
Stuff and nonsense! It's just childish, all this fussing and this cranking.
If you had the proper treatment, it would be a thorough spanking.
I have got my own opinion of the idiots that borrow Sorrow.

I am blessed with some possessions! You might almost call me wealthy,
And I freely make admission I'm invariably healthy;
I have friends, a loving helpmate, and sweet children, and I'm grateful.
But if all were lost to-morrow I would not be mean and hateful.
I am sure I'd bear it nobly, I would rise to the occasion,
I would gally face the music, with no weakness or evasion,
I'd not nurse a grief or pet it, I would smilingly defy it—
Try it.

Ten Most Important Events

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY

A READER requests an answer to the following question: "What ten circumstances were, in your opinion, the most conducive to the present civilization—beginning with historic time and coming down to the present day?"

1. The birth and ministry of Jesus of Nazareth. The simple teachings of Jesus, as outlined in the three Synoptical Gospels, have, in spite of theology and the ologians, been of incalculable value to mankind, and are destined, when they shall have thrown off their false accretions, to make all mankind brothers.

2. The Battle of Marathon—490 B. C.—that saved European civilization from being swallowed up in Oriental despotism and sensuality.

3. The Battle of Tours—732 A. D.—that turned back the tide of the Mohammedan invasion, that threatened to roll over all Europe, as it had already done over most of the Eastern world.

4. Magna Charta—1215—that laid the foundation for the rights of man, as against the tyranny of kings and their henchmen.

4. The printing press—1438—which made possible the widespread intelligence which is ultimately to free mankind from the ignorance, superstition and fear which have ever been the rough material out of which all sorts of fakirs and despots have manufactured the means of their unrighteous rule.

6. The steam engine—1765—which, by annihilating space and defying wind and wave, has created a world-wide commerce and, at the same time, given the different peoples of the world a chance to know each other personally.

7. The British victory at Quebec—1759—which settled the fact that Anglo-Saxon rather than Latin, ideas and institutions should prevail throughout the great North American continent.

8. Illuminating gas—1792—which gave the light that is so pleasant to honest folks and so disadvantageous to criminals.

9. The electric telegraph—1827—which keeps us in daily touch with all that is going on in the world.

10. Anesthetics—1847—the annihilator of pain and the foundation of the wonderful surgery of the day.

War---Why?

By ARTHUR LAYCOCK

Printed at the request of Mr. Andrew Carnegie

GIVE me a gun,
That I may blaze away
At him whom I ne'er met before this day;
Yes, e'en at him whose face I scarce can see,
He, afar off, a thousand yards from me.
Mad work? Yes, 'tis, for both of us poor fools—
For me and him, both of us merely tools.

Give him a gun,
That he may fire at me
If chance he gets. For that—let Fate decree!
He's but a blot, a dot upon earth's crust,
But now 'tis me or him must bite the dust.
Quarrel? Not me; ne'er met the man before:
We're simply fools and tools, I say once more.

Arm both of us,
That each may shoot at each.
At home—his home and mine—the parsons preach
"All men are brothers." That I don't deny.
But if 'tis so, then I would ask you why
We should be faced now, strange friend and me,
Having no quarrel? 'Cause 'tis fools we be.

* * * *

Give me my sight!
That's right!

* * * *

Mate, give me thy hand!
At last we understand.
Guns, bayonets, swords, cannon and all hell's tools,
These no men need when human reason rules.
Thy home is thine; sacred thy fatherland,
Mine doubly safe, while true to Right we stand.
Hell's agents only—Vice, Ambition, Greed—
Thy foes and mine; from these we'll now be freed!

The Annual Forecast

By WEX JONES

JANUARY—Early in this month many resolutions will be made. A trifle later almost as many resolutions will be broken. Boston will be visited by a heavy snowstorm, and the Street Cleaning Department will explain that the snow would have been removed earlier if it had thawed. In the meantime, a number of estimable citizens will forget their rubbers, catch colds and die, leaving their families in affluence or in sorrow, according to the state of their bank accounts. There will be much sorrow among business men and married men at the beginning of the month, owing to statements received in the mail. Most of these will begin M— Dr., to—. Toward the end of the month many men will be noticed in cafes for the first time in 1911.

FEBRUARY—In 1911 February will contain less sorrow than any other month, the reason being that there will be only twenty-eight days in it. This is a definite prediction of a type that is seldom ventured upon by advertising seers, but time will show. In this month a revolution will be started in Central America. Girls aged from fourteen to twenty-eight may expect to receive several letters on the 14th of the month, probably inclosing pictures of two hearts pierced with an arrow. The importance of what this indicates depends upon the sender.

JUNE—Many Bostonians will now begin to look forward to vacations with great interest. They will begin saving up their money. There will be many complaints of excessive heat in the subway, but Mr. Bennett will reply that he has placed revolving fans in several cars, and that the air in front of each fan is chased away 200 times in every minute.

JULY—Four days after the beginning of July there will be a series of explosions all over the country. This will be a bad time to allow your children to hold cannon crackers in their hands until they explode. A number of fingers will be missing about this time. Owners of seaside hotels will begin to smile again.

AUGUST—The city will be deserted by all but four or five million people. Sunburn will cause much discomfort to many young men from department stores and other sheltered places. Numbers of city people say, "Gee, wish I was back to old Reading out of this hum of a village, where the only live ones are the mosquitoes."

SEPTEMBER — Numerous Bostonians will return to the city and discover the fact that they had to leave the villages, where they were having such a good time. Female Bostonians exhibit costs of tan for two days and then endeavor to remove them with peroxide.

OCTOBER—On the first day of this month you will move. On the second you will be sorry that you signed the lease. Your wife will begin to make Christmas presents.

NOVEMBER—You will get out last year's overcoat and find five moth holes in it.

DECEMBER—You will read in the papers, "Do your Christmas shopping early," and you will resolve to do so. On December 23 you will begin to do it. At the end of the month you will begin to make good resolutions—not to go into effect, however, until the beginning of the year.
